

Move to Speed Lending Plan To End Session

Leaders of Both Major Parties Want Quick Vote

CHIEF BARRIER

Congress Members are Hoping to Leave for Home by July 29

Washington — (P) — Republican senators charted a course of opposition to the administration's multi-billion dollar lending program today which, it was said, may tie up that project in debate "for a week or two."

Despite numerous changes made in lending legislation by the administration—including elimination of the title term "self-liquidating"—Senator Townsend of Delaware said his fellow Republicans still would demand extensive changes.

Washington — (P) — Republican leaders joined Democratic chiefs today in seeking prompt action on President Roosevelt's $2,800,000,000 lending bill so congress can go home soon—perhaps by July 29.

Senator McNary (R-Or.) advised Democratic Leader Barkley (D-Ky.) that Republican senators would cooperate in any move for a quick showdown vote, even though most of them oppose the legislation.

With the thorny neutrality issue definitely shelved for this session, the lending program remained as the chief barrier to speedy adjournment.

Mr. Roosevelt was disclosed to have agreed to expand the program to include additional authority for the E.C.A. to insure business loans which hold a "reasonable prospect" of repayment.

Concession To Opponents

Senator Barkley, author of the lending bill, made one concession to opponents by agreeing to eliminate a provision calling for a permanent revolving fund. Under his proposal, money repaid on loans would be turned over to the treasury instead of being put aside for future re-lending.

Although both Barkley and Senator Minton (D-Ind.) Democratic whip, said they were "shooting at adjournment by the end of next week, cloakroom conversations were dominated by talk of a special session to settle the neutrality question. Most well-informed senators held the belief Mr. Roosevelt would call congress back at once if a new crisis developed in Europe.

The president and Secretary Hull had pleaded for immediate repeal of the arms embargo against warring nations, but agreed at a White House conference Tuesday night to postpone action until the next session.

Would Cut Jap Trade

Authors of proposals to restrict commerce with Japan, however, were hopeful of a vote before adjournment. Senator Pittman (D-Nev.) has introduced a bill to authorize embargoes against Japanese goods, while Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) has called for abrogation of the 1911 treaty of amity and commerce with Japan, after the specified six months' notice.

With adjournment in sight, both senate and house were cleaning up unfinished business as quickly as possible. The house called up two controversial measures today. One would authorize an investigation of the labor board by a house committee. The other was the Hatch bill, designed to curtail "pernicious political activities," which has been approved by the senate.

The senate passed yesterday and sent to the house legislation to extend the government's all-risk crop insurance program for cotton growers. The insurance system was started in 1938 on wheat.

Railroad legislation, already approved by the senate, apparently has little chance of enactment at this session.

Work Holiday Is Supported In Some Areas

Appleton Crews Working; Green Bay Projects Down

MANY IGNORE CALL

Comparatively Few WPA Workers Stay Away Throughout Nation

Milwaukee — (P) — The call of the Workers' Alliance for a work holiday in protest against new WPA regulations was received with varying reactions in Wisconsin today.

In some sections, the holiday was accorded almost unanimous support while in others few, or no, workers participated.

Reports in the Green Bay district, which includes Outagamie county, were at variance. Mark Muth, WPA director of the district, said all projects were closed, but the Appleton WPA office reported projects in city were in operation and that no projects in the county were reported closed.

A mass meeting of WPA workers was called in Green Bay.

At Manitowish and Two Rivers, where 746 persons are on WPA rolls, it was reported practically 99 per cent joined in the protest demonstration.

The engineer in charge of Marathon county work said no workers left their jobs. A plan for a 15-minute pause at 10 a. m. on Kenosha projects failed to materialize, although the workers found time to sign petitions protesting regulations which increased their work hours to 130 hours a month.

Most Stay on Jobs

An early check showed most of the employees remained on the job in Milwaukee. At one construction project employing 980 men, 43 laid down their tools. Twenty-two walked off the job at another project, employing 549 men. At a third, employing 400 men, 40 per cent of the men expressed a desire to work.

At state WPA offices in Madison, it was reported no check was being made to determine the number of absences due to the protest. The pay checks of absentees will be cut according to the number of hours missed, it was announced.

It was expected that no more than 200 out of 1,900 Dane county employees would stay away.

Legislative Group To Study Outlook For Added Pensions

Madison — (P) — A legislative committee was set up by resolution today to study the feasibility of increasing old age pension allowances.

The assembly concurred in a joint resolution by Senator Cornelius Young (D) Milwaukee, creating a committee of three senators and five assemblymen to seek a compromise on all of the pension bills now pending.

House members will be appointed by Speaker Vernon Thomson (R) Richland Center, and senate members by the committee on committees.

Simultaneously the senate again deferred action on the Wisconsin Recovery League bill to allot pensions to all persons over 60 and increase the present monthly payments. The bill originally called for $60 a month, but a substitute scaled down the figure to $45.

In addition there are numerous other measures in both houses, including miscellaneous tax bills, all of which will be referred to the new committee.

Push Bill to Have Counties Issue Licenses

Senate Engrasses Measure After Refusing to Vote It Down

SAVING IS FORECAST

Upper House Approaches Vote on Revamping Public Service Body

Madison — (P) — The senate engrassed today an assembly bill providing for distribution of automobile licenses by county clerks.

After refusing, 18 to 11, to kill the measure, the senate advanced it beyond the amendable stage on a voice vote. A move to suspend the rules and take a final vote on passage failed.

Assemblyman Rudolph M. Schlach (R) La Crosse, is author of the measure which would take the licensing bureau from the secretary of state and authorize the clerks of the 71 counties to issue plates. The clerks would receive a fee of 50 cents on each license.

Senators favoring the change argued that it would save money. Opponents recalled that former Governors Kohler, Schmiedeman and LaFollette vetoed similar bills, and that the voters rejected the plan in a 1931 referendum.

Goodland For Bill

Lieutenant Governor Walter S. Goodland (R) Racine, joined in the discussion favoring the bill. He said an investigation several years ago showed savings of $300,000 to $400,000 were possible under a county distribution system.

Senator Philip Nelson (P) Maple, said the present cost per license was 83 cents and since the county clerk would get only 50 cents there would be a saving of 43 cents on each plate.

Senator Harry Bolens (D) Port Washington, estimated $8,000 would be saved in postage expense.

Speaking against the bill were Senators Fred R. Fisher of Wau-paca, Jess Peters of Hartford, and Carl Lovelace of Woodford, all Republicans, and Senator Fred Risher (P) Madison.

Fisher recalled that former Governor Kohler vetoed a similar proposal. Peters said bonds would be required of each county clerk and Lovelace contended it would cost $50,000 a year for an auditing system.

Secretary of State Fred Zimmerman had estimated that about 50 of the 200 employees of the motor vehicle division would lose their jobs.

Reorganization Plan

The senate took up a bill reorganizing the public service commission after defeating, 20 to 13, a move to kill it.

The senate was scheduled to reconvene this afternoon for further debate and final action.

Senators Gettelman (R) Milwaukee, and Yindra (D) Manitowish, joined the Progressive minority in an effort to indefinitely postpone the measure, listed as a "must" bill by the governor in his recent address to the legislature.

The bill would replace the three-man commission with a director, at a $10,000 annual salary, subject to senate confirmation. A number of assistants would be provided for various divisions.

Senators Nelson (P) Maple, and Kresky (P) Green Bay, charged the reorganization proposal was the result of an agreement between the administration and the Wisconsin Telephone company.

They said a "deal" was arranged whereby the telephone company, which recently won a state supreme court decision on rate cuts, agreed to continuance of an emergency surtax, first enacted by the LaFollette regime, as proposed by Governor Heil's message.

Sweeping Probe of U. S. Labor Board Ordered in House

Tension Is Increased After Customs Officer in Danzig Shoots Down Polish Soldier

Free City of Danzig — (P) — The killing of a Polish soldier near the Danzig frontier village of Postelau this forenoon suddenly increased tension between the free city and Poland.

Poles charged that the Polish soldier, Witold Budziewicz, was shot by a Danzig border official on Polish soil.

Free city authorities said the Danzig customs officer, Max Stein, had fired in self-defense.

Officials told widely differing stories of the incident which created great excitement at the office of the Polish commissioner in Danzig.

The account of authorities of the nazified Danzig government was that Stein while patrolling near the Polish-Danzig frontier saw a man on a bicycle riding toward him from Poland with a rifle slung over his shoulder.

Danzig Version

At the border, Danzigers said, the man dismounted, raised the rifle to his shoulder and released the safety catch as he aimed at the Danzig official.

Stein asserted he shot the Pole in self-defense.

Danzig authorities said they were not certain the Pole was dead, but the Polish commissioner's office reported Budziewicz died a few minutes after he collapsed at the frontier.

The Polish version was that a Danzig customs officer and two men in Danzig storm troopers uniforms approached the border and without warning shot Budziewicz who was several yards within the Polish side.

Poles described the incident as "unjustifiable provocation."

The Polish commissioner, Marian Crocicki, conferred with Danzig senate officials while both sides still were receiving reports from the scene of the shooting, on the free city district's southern frontier.

As the incident occurred, the nazified Danzig senate was preparing for conscription of men and wealth and taking further measures to meet emergencies which might arise from the Nazi campaign to reunite the free city with Germany.

Represents and Big Group of Democrats Back Move

5 ON COMMITTEE

Will Determine Effect on Employer and Labor Relations

Washington — (P) — The house ordered today a sweeping investigation of the national labor relations board.

A resolution creating a five-man investigating committee was put through by an almost solid phalanx of Republicans and a large group of Democrats.

Speaker Bankhead announced the roll call vote for the resolution was 232 to 135.

The measure, by Representative Smith (D-Va.), calls for an inquiry to determine whether a new board to administer the Wagner labor act should be created and what effect the board may have had on employer and labor relations.

Sponsors claimed the inquiry was necessary to meet "tremendous pressure" from all parts of the country while opponents asked that action be deferred until labor committees of both the senate and house could conclude their hearings on Wagner act amendments and make recommendations of their own.

Test Vote First

The vote on final approval came shortly after a test vote of 288 to 131 had disclosed a majority of representatives were for the investigation.

The action came, after an hour of bitter debate on a technical question leading to a vote on the main issue of whether the inquiry should be ordered.

Representative Smith urging the house to vote an investigation of the board, argued there would not be "tremendous pressure" through-out the country for the inquiry unless "something was wrong that needs looking into."

Although opponents conceded beforehand they lacked the votes to block the inquiry, Chairman Norton (D-N. J.) of the labor committee appealed to the well-filled chamber to vote down the resolution so her committee could continue the "job it has so well started" of studying labor relations act amendments.

"You men can count on your committee," she shouted. "Your committee will be fair and just and if it is necessary to amend the law, I'll do just that. Vote down this resolution and let the committee finish the job it has so well started."

SAYS ACT VIOLATED

Washington — (P) — A Delaware labor leader declared today employers in his state were in violation of the new government officials are still defying most essential provisions" of the national labor relations act.

William J. McClefferty, state chairman of Labor's Non-Partisan league, told the senate labor committee that organized labor in Delaware, including both A. F. of L. and CIO groups, was opposed to any amendment of the act now.

"Labor in Delaware needs the Wagner labor act as desperately as does labor anywhere in this nation," McClefferty said. "Employer interference with union organizing in Delaware has been especially flagrant."

"The situation is bad enough today and any weakening of the act, especially in the direction of authorizing employer 'interference,' would be disastrous," he said.

The labor spokesman charged that the state "chamber of commerce set up a slush fund of $100,000 to employ a high-salaried attorney" to handle labor act cases.

This method, he testified, had caused many new unions to "fold up" before organization was perfected.

The witness told senators that at Laurel, Del., the mayor, the magistrate and the president and vice president of the chamber of commerce had cooperated in an attempt to prevent organization of a union among employees of H. Bomze and Brother.

Proposed Picnic for Needy Children Has No Official Sponsor

A proposed picnic for needy children of Outagamie county to be given in the city does not have the sponsorship of any Appleton organization, Kenneth H. Corbett, secretary of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, said today.

Corbett said he had been requested by an Appleton merchant to investigate the picnic, for which solicitations are reported being made over the phone by a woman. The merchant had been called by the woman and asked to contribute money to sponsor the picnic.

Corbett said he was told today that the woman supposedly promoting the event is from Green Bay and has no official affiliation with any organization or governmental agency in the city of Appleton or Outagamie county.

Evjue Is Called First in Lobby Quiz at Madison

John Doe Investigation of Alleged Vote-Buying Is Launched

Madison — (P) — A John Doe investigation of alleged vote-buying in the legislature by lobbyists got underway behind closed doors in superior court chambers today.

William T. Evjue, publisher of the Madison Capital Times, was the first witness.

Henry H. Behnke, deputy district attorney, launched the investigation on orders of District Attorney Norris E. Maloney following publication of an editorial in the Capital Times asking whether some legislators had "business agents" to handle deals with interests having a stake in legislation.

Evjue was in the hearing room for about half an hour and when he emerged he said he had been ordered not to disclose his testimony.

Behnke, who acted as questioner at the hearing, refused to comment but announced that two other witnesses have been subpoenaed to appear at 2 p. m. today. They were William J. P. Aberg, Madison attorney, and George H. Heil, recently appointed to the state conservation commission, and Aldric Revell, political reporter for the Capital Times.

In a complaint filed in superior court yesterday, Behnke listed charges that unidentified persons had made promises of payment to influence legislation and had failed to register themselves as lobbyists.

Denies Kidnaping His Former Wife

Prisoner Held in Bail of $11,200 for Hearing July 28

Northampton, Mass. — (P) — James J. Kehoe, 24, a former convict, charged with kidnaping his divorced wife, pleaded innocent in district court today and was held in $11,200 bail for a hearing July 28.

Kehoe, who had entered pleas of innocence to additional charges of robbery while armed, larceny, and carrying a dangerous weapon, was committed to Hampshire county jail in lieu of bail. He stood mute in the prisoner's enclosure after entering his plea, outwardly calm.

Neither the woman he was charged with holding for 24 hours nor her present husband, from whose presence she allegedly was abducted, was in the courtroom when Kehoe was arraigned.

The alleged abductor was arrested in a tourist cabin last night, 20 miles from the scene of the kidnaping.

With him, the arresting officers reported, was Mrs. Bernice Beckwith, 27, who divorced Kehoe about six years ago when he was sentenced to serve a reformatory term on a burglary charge. Officers said she appeared unharmed.

Her husband, Cyril Beckwith, attacked Kehoe with his fists when the prisoner was brought into state police barracks, and rained blows on his face until officers pried them apart.

Joint Legislative Body to Draft Plan For Northern Region

Madison — (P) — Assembly Speaker Thomson (R) Richland Center, today appointed Assemblymen Berquist (P) Rhinelander, Burns (R) Ladysmith, and Rath (D) Antigo, to a committee to draft a coordinated land utilization policy for 26 northern counties.

The committee, to which three senators must yet be named, was established under a joint resolution introduced by Berquist.

The measure directs the committee to draft a policy "which takes into account the contributions which may be made by all interested county, state and federal agencies, and involving the development of an immediate forestry works program; to confer with the administration regarding the possibility of setting up and putting into operation a Wisconsin forest works authority, and present a report of its work to the legislature."

The counties involved are Adams, Ashland, Bayfield, Burnett, Chippewa, Clark, Douglas, Eau Claire, Florence, Forest, Iron, Jackson, Juneau, Langlade, Lincoln, Marinette, Monroe, Oconto, Oneida, Price, Rush, Sawyer, Taylor, Vilas, Washburn and Wood.

Buckman Creditors to Get Little on Claims

Madison — (P) — Hearings on claims against the B. E. Buckman Investment company indicated today that creditors would receive at most one or two cents on each dollar invested.

Miles G. Riley, referee in bankruptcy, said he expected to complete hearings by the end of August.

Guardsman Sentenced As Result of Accident

Madison — (P) — Corporal Philip W. Hartley, 26, of Milwaukee, driver of a national guard truck which crashed on the Oregon road July 8 killing one man, was sentenced in superior court today to a term of one to two years in Waupun prison.

Hartley pleaded guilty to charges of manslaughter and driving while under the influence of liquor. He withdrew former pleas of innocence.

The defendant's attorney, San W. Orr, urged the court to be lenient, but Judge Roy H. Proctor imposed the prison term on recommendation of Henry H. Behnke, deputy district attorney.

Paul Trush, 29, Beloit, a national guardsman was killed when the station wagon in which he and six others were enroute to Camp Douglas overturned. Testimony before a coroner's jury showed the party had been drinking.

Dickinson Says 'Prominent Lady' May Have Encouraged Drinking Among U. S. Women

Lansing, Mich. — (P) — Governor Luren D. Dickinson of Michigan said last night in a radio address that women he saw drinking liquor without becoming intoxicated at a "high life" party in New York may have "learned the formula advised by a prominent lady of our nation" just before repeal of prohibition.

He told newsmen the "prominent lady" was Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the president, but she was not mentioned by name in the address.

The 80-year-old governor and veteran dry leader said this "prominent lady" addressed to "young girls who would avoid being called prigs" the following statement: "The average girl of today faces the problem of learning very young how much she can drink of such things as whisky, gin and so forth and sticking to the proper quantity."

Mrs. Roosevelt delivered a radio speech Dec. 9, 1932, in which she said that in her youth a girl was not branded as a prig or being unsocial if she did not join in whatever drinking was going on, "but prohibition seems to have changed that to a certain extent."

She also pointed out the modern girl is "better able to take care of herself because her experience is greater, but on the other hand, there are more temptations and they come courting her more frequently."

John B. Corliss, Jr., of Detroit, wrote Governor Luren D. Dickinson today that he would withdraw permission to drink.

Father Mortell, Menasha Pastor, Dies at Oshkosh

Illness of Six Months Is Fatal to Head of St. Patrick Parish

Menasha — (P) — The Rev. William P. Mortell, 63, pastor of St. Patrick parish at Menasha the last 8 years, died at 11:30 this morning at Mercy hospital, Oshkosh.

Father Mortell suffered an attack of influenza about Jan. 1, which was followed by a gall bladder infection. He underwent treatment and submitted to an operation at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn. He returned home and was recovering until five weeks ago when he suffered a relapse.

The Rev. Father Mortell, son of Dennis and Mary Mulcahy Mortell, was born on a farm near Chilton, Oct. 22, 1875. He received his training for the priesthood at St. Francis seminary at St. Francis, Wis. He was ordained to the priesthood June 6, 1901, by Bishop Katzer and celebrated his first mass at Chilton, June 20, 1901.

His first appointment was at Lourdes parish in Marinette where he assisted the Vicar-General Rev. P. L. Lochman. In December, 1903, he was transferred to Menasha.

Heil Is Assailed for Plea to Cut Pay Roll

Madison — (P) — Governor Heil's recommendation for dismissal of 1,300 state employees to save $2,000,000 was attacked in the house today by Assemblyman Ben Rubin (P) Milwaukee.

Speaking on personal privilege Rubin said the governor should "practice what he preaches" in the executive office.

He quoted figures to show that in 1935 there were 12 employees in the executive office receiving $1,973 a month, that in 1938 there were 18 employees, including four part time workers, receiving $2,511 a month, and that under Governor Heil, 17 employees were being paid $3,381 a month.

Rubin said four employees in Heil's office receive more than $400 a month and that one is being paid $350.

Tavernkeepers of Shawano County War on Gambling as Result of Slot Machine Raids

Shawano — Shawano county, long noted for being about as wide open a gambling county as any in Wisconsin, soon will be lily-white in this respect if the tavernkeepers have anything to say about it. Angered because they were deprived of slot machines in a recent crusade, they have served notice on Sheriff Carl Druckrey that they will complain against anyone conducting bingo games, raffles, merchandise drawing or any other activity that seems to be covered by the anti-gambling laws.

The sheriff, in turn, has notified organizations, including churches, accustomed to raising funds by mild forms of gambling, that he will enforce the law if complaints are made. And tavernkeepers say they will complain, so it looks as if it will be pretty hard to lose a nickel in Shawano via the gambling route for a while at least.

The Shawano County Conservation club and a civic organization at Bowler recently have advertised merchandise drawings at activities they sponsor, but Tuesday night the conservation club's directors decided to abandon the raffle and dispose of the prizes in some other manner. Now conservationists declare they will keep an eye on over-the-bar dice games, and perhaps there will be complaints against taverns remaining open after 1 o'clock in the morning.

All in all Shawano county seems to be headed toward virtue—but no one is predicting how long it will last.

The alleged abductor was arrested in a tourist cabin last night, 20 miles from the scene of the kidnaping.

With him, the arresting officers reported, was Mrs. Bernice Beckwith, 27, who divorced Kehoe about six years ago when he was sentenced to serve a reformatory term on a burglary charge. Officers said she appeared unharmed.

Her husband, Cyril Beckwith, attacked Kehoe with his fists when the prisoner was brought into state police barracks, and rained blows on his face until officers pried them apart.

Joint Legislative Body to Draft Plan For Northern Region

Madison — (P) — Assembly Speaker Thomson (R) Richland Center, today appointed Assemblymen Berquist (P) Rhinelander, Burns (R) Ladysmith, and Rath (D) Antigo, to a committee to draft a coordinated land utilization policy for 26 northern counties.

The committee, to which three senators must yet be named, was established under a joint resolution introduced by Berquist.

The measure directs the committee to draft a policy "which takes into account the contributions which may be made by all interested county, state and federal agencies, and involving the development of an immediate forestry works program; to confer with the administration regarding the possibility of setting up and putting into operation a Wisconsin forest works authority, and present a report of its work to the legislature."

The counties involved are Adams, Ashland, Bayfield, Burnett, Chippewa, Clark, Douglas, Eau Claire, Florence, Forest, Iron, Jackson, Juneau, Langlade, Lincoln, Marinette, Monroe, Oconto, Oneida, Price, Rush, Sawyer, Taylor, Vilas, Washburn and Wood.

Buckman Creditors to Get Little on Claims

Madison — (P) — Hearings on claims against the B. E. Buckman Investment company indicated today that creditors would receive at most one or two cents on each dollar invested.

Miles G. Riley, referee in bankruptcy, said he expected to complete hearings by the end of August.

Guardsman Sentenced As Result of Accident

Madison — (P) — Corporal Philip W. Hartley, 26, of Milwaukee, driver of a national guard truck which crashed on the Oregon road July 8 killing one man, was sentenced in superior court today to a term of one to two years in Waupun prison.

Hartley pleaded guilty to charges of manslaughter and driving while under the influence of liquor. He withdrew former pleas of innocence.

The defendant's attorney, San W. Orr, urged the court to be lenient, but Judge Roy H. Proctor imposed the prison term on recommendation of Henry H. Behnke, deputy district attorney.

Paul Trush, 29, Beloit, a national guardsman was killed when the station wagon in which he and six others were enroute to Camp Douglas overturned. Testimony before a coroner's jury showed the party had been drinking.

Dickinson Says 'Prominent Lady' May Have Encouraged Drinking Among U. S. Women

Lansing, Mich. — (P) — Governor Luren D. Dickinson of Michigan said last night in a radio address that women he saw drinking liquor without becoming intoxicated at a "high life" party in New York may have "learned the formula advised by a prominent lady of our nation" just before repeal of prohibition.

He told newsmen the "prominent lady" was Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the president, but she was not mentioned by name in the address.

The 80-year-old governor and veteran dry leader said this "prominent lady" addressed to "young girls who would avoid being called prigs" the following statement: "The average girl of today faces the problem of learning very young how much she can drink of such things as whisky, gin and so forth and sticking to the proper quantity."

Mrs. Roosevelt delivered a radio speech Dec. 9, 1932, in which she said that in her youth a girl was not branded as a prig or being unsocial if she did not join in whatever drinking was going on, "but prohibition seems to have changed that to a certain extent."

She also pointed out the modern girl is "better able to take care of herself because her experience is greater, but on the other hand, there are more temptations and they come courting her more frequently."

John B. Corliss, Jr., of Detroit, wrote Governor Luren D. Dickinson today that he would withdraw permission to drink.

Plan to Slash U. S. Pay Roll May Save $80,000,000 a Year

President Roosevelt Seeks To Assure Compliance With Order

Washington — (AP)—Federal fiscal experts, estimating President Roosevelt's plan to reduce the government pay roll might save upwards of $80,000,000 a year reported today he was seeking "teeth" for his order to assure compliance.

The president told reporters Tuesday he proposed to economize by not filling vacancies caused by the resignation, death or retirement of federal employees who could be spared without impairing vital governmental functions.

The plan was tried as recently as 1937, when acting Budget Director Daniel W. Bell impounded parts of each appropriation. It failed, however, to save the 10 per cent requested in a congressional resolution, because most agencies later persuaded the president and Bell to release some of the impounded money.

Alternative Proposal

As an alternative, the president and the new budget director, Harold D. Smith, were reported to be considering a ban on any agencies hiring new employees without permission from Smith.

Some personnel experts in the government, however, said this plan was too drastic, even though it was used in 1932-33.

These experts pointed out the annual turnover in the government pay roll is only about 5 per cent. Thus, the maximum saving would be $80,000,000 if no vacancies were filled and if the pay roll remained as it was in the last year—$1,600,000,000.

The last count, there were 902,827 civil executive employees of the government, not counting military or local WPA workers.

Whatever the saving, it was not expected to make much of a dent in the federal budget. Latest estimates for the current fiscal year indicate expenditures will run over $9,000,000,000—not counting the $2,800,000,000 asked for the new lending programs and that the deficit will be roughly $3,500,000,000.

Milk Market Law Upheld by Court

Judge Doesn't Like It but Says It's Legislature's Concern

Madison — (AP)—Circuit Judge Alvin C. Reis upheld today an order of the state department of agriculture and markets extending the Janesville regulated milk market from one to five miles beyond the city limits.

The department issued the order, effective July 1, to prevent cut rate competition by milk stands which operated immediately outside the one mile limit.

Ruling against five milk stand owners who challenged the milk control law as unconstitutional, Judge Reis said that validity of the law already had been upheld by the state supreme court.

He added that he had "no special admiration" for the price fixing statute.

"That is none of our business," the judge said, "if this law has outlived its emergency usefulness, then it should be repealed, or—like the present status of the codes—it may be emasculated. This is the concern of the legislature and the legislature alone."

A bill is pending in the assembly to re-enact the law for two years.

Racial Harmony Is Hailed at Baptist Meeting at Atlanta

Atlanta — (AP)—Negroes working in the same registration headquarters with white persons were pointed out today by leaders as an example of racial harmony characterizing the Baptist World Alliance.

The arrangement — an unusual one for the south — found the Rev. W. A. Duncan, white chairman of registration, and his staff working over one counter and the Rev. W. W. Weatherspoon, Negro chairman, and his staff busy at another counter.

They were registering messengers (delegates) of their respective races to the sixth congress of the alliance opening Saturday for a week of discussion and review of Baptist activities, doctrines and policies.

In comment, Dr. J. H. Rushbrooke of London, general secretary of the alliance, said a "very brotherly spirit" is prevailing between the races and that he hoped its influence would be widespread.

Make Preparations For Joint Pension, Welfare Department

Preparations have been started for moving the Outagamie County Public Welfare department from the old post office building to the Odd Fellows building where it will be administered with the county pension department under the supervision of T. S. Davis, pension director.

Combining the welfare with the pension department was ordered at the last session of the county board upon the recommendation of Sanger Powers, representative of the state welfare department. Powers stated that more satisfactory work could be given the supervisors and that some duplication of work would be avoided through the change.

The state will continue to pay the cost of administering the department which handles the certification for WPA, distribution of surplus commodities and CCC enrollments.

The change will be effective on Aug. 1.

McNutt Observes Quiet Birthday

New Security Agency Head Silent About Campaign Plans

Indianapolis — (AP)—Paul V. McNutt, new federal security administrator and a candidate for the 1940 Democratic presidential nomination, left here for Washington early today silent regarding campaign plans.

"I'm thinking more about the federal security agency right now than I am of anything else," he said before getting on his train. He will arrive at the capital late tonight.

McNutt indicated Clarence A. Jackson, Indiana unemployment compensation director, would join him in Washington soon to help set up the federal security program.

He said celebration of his forty-eighth birthday in Martinsville last night was "just a family party" and we "had a grand time."

The former Indiana governor and erstwhile United States high commissioner to the Philippines ate a dinner of Hoosier fried chicken in his boyhood home.

Only his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John C. McNutt, and two sons and his wife and daughter, Louise, were at the party.

Many friends called at the house during the evening.

C. E. Nelson Buys Home On W. Summer Street

Carl E. Nelson, 1224 W. Prospect avenue, has purchased a house and lot at 813 W. Summer street from Melvin Schmidt. The new owner plans to take possession of the home before Aug. 1. The real estate transfer has been filed at the office of Stephen Peeters, Outagamie county register of deeds. The following transfers also have been filed:

Albert Horn to Carl W. Egert, a lot in the Thirteenth ward, Appleton.

Roy Kirschenlore to Adam Limpert, part of a lot in the old Fifth ward, Appleton.

Henry Recknagel to George Worsch, a lot in the city of Seymour.

Nick A. Jansen to John F. Molle, part of a lot in the village of Little Chute.

Mrs. Cecil Hardacker to Herbert M. Reitz, a lot in the old Sixth ward, Appleton.

Hubert O. Wolfe, et al to Lena Lange, a lot in the Seventh ward, Appleton.

Man Held in Slaying Of Gold Prospector

Gunnison, Colo. — (AP)—A timber operator, Al Rickert, 38, was held on a first degree murder charge today as the out-growth of this mining community's "burned feel" slaying case.

Phil Donaher, 47, a gold prospector, was beaten fatally during a quarrel last Saturday night and his feet were burned with ignited wood shavings before he died. Rickert declined to enter a plea.

Sheriff Ed Lindsley said Rickert suspected Donaher of planning to "double cross" him in the grubstaking of a claim. Five other men were charged as accessories in the slaying.

Borah, ranking Republican committeeman; and Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Emphasis on Physical Fitness Reaches Proportions of Major Historical World Development

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York — (AP)—There are interesting things growing out of the upheaval in Europe and the Orient. Mussolini is calling attention to one of them now with his four-day physical fitness tests for fascist leaders, including those who are fat and fifty plus.

That is merely a colorful reflection of a mighty urge for bodily perfection which has so possessed the imaginations of peoples from England clear through to Japan that it has become a fetish.

Had it not been obscured by a series of war-threats it would have been recognized as one of the most remarkable developments of our time. Danzig is the current 8-ball behind which it lies, and if it weren't Danzig it would be something else.

Historical Development

True, the fitness campaign has been under way in some countries for a considerable period. But it is only recently that it has reached such proportions that it must take its place as a great historical development.

Mussolini's field-meet is theatrical, and one is inclined to be sympathetic with the elders who have been sent out to demonstrate their prowess as an example to youth, and prove their suitability to be il duci's lieutenants.

Two have been reported injured thus far. Last year one official was hurt jumping through a flaming hoop, and another painfully pinked himself when he tried to hurdle a barrier of bayonets.

Still, underlying this well-nigh unique show is the idea of physical perfection for a nation. Mussolini—who doesn't ask his assistants to do anything that he can't do himself with his fine physique—was one of the pioneers in applying mass physical training to the youth of a country. Millions of young Italians already have become athletes.

Compulsory Training

Hitler has made physical training compulsory for youth and already some 8,000,000 are enrolled in the ranks of the Hitler youth movement. When I toured Germany a few months ago I was deeply impressed with the apparent physical fitness of the boys and girls.

Soviet Russia is another country engaged in intensive physical training. A couple of days ago Moscow held its annual physical culture parade of Soviet youth. All the constituent republics of this vast union were represented by athletes trained to the minute.

Totalitarian states like Germany and Italy naturally have found little difficulty in making physical training universal because of the nature of their governments. If the chief of state wants physical training, he gets it.

Totalitarian rule, however, hasn't proved to be essential. England has embarked on physical culture in a big way. Under the guidance of a government body known as the "National Fitness Council for England and Wales," there has been intensive organization of societies for the training not only of both boys and girls, but of older people.

Lover of Sports

The government has declared its aim to be "to inculcate a wider realization that physical fitness has a vital part to play in promoting a healthy mind and human happiness." It isn't particularly difficult to get this idea across in England, for the Briton always has been a lover of outdoor sports.

France has general compulsory military training (which includes physical culture) in high schools for boys. There also are private societies for training under the direction of retired army officers. Beyond that, however, France depends on unofficial organizations to take care of athletic pursuits. Various schemes for physical training are being pushed in some other European countries.

Japan is going after the idea vigorously. It is said that 30,000,000 of Nippon's population of 80,000,000 bend and sway every working morning at 6 o'clock to the direction of the radio. This gymnastic exercise, which is known as radio taiso, lasts fifteen minutes and in many homes it includes everybody from toddlers to granddads.

While there is no compulsory training, the government encourages the work of athletic organizations, which are widespread. Both boys and girls are included in this health drive which has as one of its aims to provide physically fit emigrants for Manchoukuo and other continental points.

Albee stopped the train. Passengers and crew joined in the search; located the plate.

Albee flicked off a cinder, climbing aboard and pulled into Santa Fe on time.

Livestock May Eat Corn Surplus

Increase in Animals Should Make Marketing Quotas Unnecessary

Washington — (AP)—Administration farm officials said today that prospects for a sharp increase in livestock this year may make it unnecessary to propose corn marketing quotas.

The last official crop report indicated that corn production might put that grain in the surplus class and require a grower referendum on quotas. If they were imposed, farmers who sold or used in excess of their allotments would be subject to a penalty tax of 10 cents a bushel.

Officials cited a report of the bureau of agricultural economics which said that present indications point to a smaller supply of feed per animal than a year ago when quotas were found unnecessary.

This year's hog numbers will be augmented by a spring crop 20 per cent greater than last year and a prospective increase in the fall crop. The bureau said supplies of grain-fed cattle are likely to be somewhat larger than last year.

Officials pressed house leaders for passage of a senate-approved amendment to the farm act which would set Sept. 15 as the date for determining whether a referendum on corn is necessary. The law now sets the date at Aug. 15.

The bureau said the indicated smaller supply of feed per animal along with prospects for larger hog marketings probably would result in a hog-corn feeding ration much less favorable for hog producers than it was from late 1937 to early 1939.

Back Promotion Of Dental Health Program in U. S.

Association Declares Care Of Indigent Is Local Problem

Milwaukee — (AP)—A committee report recommending promotion of dental health programs in all the 48 states was approved yesterday by the American Dental Association's house of delegates.

The report, which also announced a stand holding that care of the indigent was a local problem and "not a responsibility of the dental profession," was presented to the association's eighty-first annual convention by the reference committee on public health.

"Many states have created dental programs in their own departments of health as was recommended by the conference of state and provincial health officers of North America," the report said in part. "Such recognition for the need of dental health supervision in the field of public health by the health commissioners of the country is indeed commendable and the American Dental Association will do well to promote this relationship to the extent of sound possibilities."

In connection with care of the indigent, the committee disagreed with officers and trustees who had suggested such care was a "joint responsibility of local governments and allied professions and should be supported by tax funds."

The committee stated it did "not concur and would substitute in lieu thereof 'that indigent care is a local problem and not a responsibility of the dental profession.'"

VERTICAL STROKE

Milwaukee — (AP)—Do you use a horizontal stroke or rotary motion in brushing your teeth?

If you use either technique, be advised you're not taking proper care of your masticators.

Dr. T. Sydney Smith of San Francisco told the American Dental Association convention today the "physiologic method" was the best—that is, brushing from the cutting surface of the tooth to the gum margin.

Believe Doctor Has Found Source of 'Flu' Epidemics

Chicago — (AP)—Science may be on the threshold of a great discovery—the source of influenza epidemics—the American Medical Association announced today.

The quest for the origin of such scourges as the great human "flu" pandemic of 1918 has led to hogs and earthworms.

So strong is the evidence that the association's journal warned physicians that "hogs and earthworms may conceivably serve as the source of some future human epidemic."

The journal's editorial told of research—with surprising results—done by Dr. R. E. Shope of Rockefeller institute.

Dr. Shope's observations were so astounding that if they are confirmed much of the medical literature on virus diseases such as poliomyelitis or infantile paralysis, "will have to be rewritten," the journal said.

Could Check Source

Finding the origin of the acute infectious disease, which killed thousands and disabled millions in Europe and America in the summer and autumn of 1918, would give doctors their first chance to strike at the source of an outbreak.

For some time bacteriologists have believed influenza might be caused by a filtrable virus, a poison exceedingly small.

Dr. Shope concluded that earthworms were "carriers" of swine influenza virus. He found that earthworms swallow the eggs of swine lungworms, that the larvae of these parasites develop in the earthworms and reenter hogs when they eat earthworms.

This suggested possibility of a transformation of the virus in the lungworms or a complex life cycle in the earthworm, which the medical journal indicated might throw new light on the whole subject of virus diseases.

"Lungworm larvae from pigs with swine influenza harbor swine influenza virus throughout their development," Dr. Shope reported. He said the virus apparently lies latent much of the time.

"Whether the swine influenza is an aberrant type of the human influenza is still controversial," the journal commented.

"Shope, however, is inclined to deduce from serologic evidence that the virus of swine influenza is a surviving variety of the agent primarily responsible for the great human pandemic of 1918."

Clapper Sees Arms Embargo As Help for Germany, Italy

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—To get anywhere in thinking through the arms-embargo controversy we have to forget labels, forget the round-about lingo which is used in formal official papers, and look at the realities, with the same blunt frankness that we employ in discussing domestic politics.

Public officials cannot always be plain-spoken in discussing international affairs, because of the danger of creating complications. But those of us who are on the sidelines can call spades by their everyday names.

The question that has to be faced is a real, point-blank selfish one. Are we better off with Great Britain and France holding their present status or would we be better off if Germany smashed the British empire? That is the real question at issue. Would we rather see Singapore in British hands or in Japanese hands? Do we want to see the British fleet driven out of the far east, and the British and Dutch East Indies, with their rubber, tin and petroleum, turned over to the axis powers? Do we want to see a balance of power in Europe or do we want the British Isles reduced to a spot on the map, the British fleet sunk or taken over by Germany, and Hitler and Mussolini masters of Europe and Africa and as such exerting a strong hand in Latin America?

Answer that question and you have begun to see daylight. I don't know any responsible person here who would like to see British power transferred to German hands.

It is meaningless to use the term "neutrality" in discussing arms-embargo legislation. We are caught in a position where we cannot be neutral in respect to our vast economic resources, so valuable to European powers in event of war. If we embargo these resources, if we refuse to permit them to be shipped to belligerents, that helps Germany.

Control Of Seas Is The Determining Factor

If we sell supplies, that helps Britain and France because they are the only powers who, controlling the seas, are in a position to come and get the supplies.

For us neutrality can be only a state of mind. It can be nothing more. If we embargo arms to all belligerents, we may think we are acting in a way that is neutral, that neither aids nor injures either side, but that is not the fact. If we embargo shipments we give Germany tremendous additional leverage by leaving her opponents infinitely weaker. If we sell, we strengthen Britain.

So whether we sell or do not sell, whether we keep the embargo or repeal it? Either way we exert an effect upon the relative strength of the opposing groups of powers—possibly a decisive effect, but in any case a considerable one.

Must Decide Where Force Will Be Directed

Thus it is impossible to hide behind the word "neutrality." If we were a small, inconsequential nation, then we could be "neutral." What we did would have little effect. We are victims so to speak of our enormous resources. They exert their force in world politics whether we want them to or not. We are helpless in the matter. We can only say where this force will be directed. And if we say we won't direct it anywhere, it still is directed

YOUNGSTERS CROWD MUNICIPAL SWIM POOL ON HOT DAYS

Here is a picture showing part of the crowd of youngsters who use the obsolete municipal swimming pool on hot summer days. The 'open-air' dressing stalls with the flapping canvas curtains may be seen in the background. On hot days, when the crowd is too big for the pool, the swimmers are hurried in and out for short swims to make room for those waiting. Big trucks and cars zooming past the pool are a hazard for young swimmers who must walk along the road in both directions to get to the pool. There is no sidewalk (Post-Crescent Photo)

Credit Production, Farm Loan Groups Lease New Quarters

Waupaca—The Credit Production association and the National Farm Loan association have leased three-fourths of the Whittington block and will occupy it Aug. 7. The offices and apartments in the building are being emptied as soon as other arrangements can be made. R. J. Havenor has leased an office in the Crispy building; Miss Mayme Johannek will move into her home on Granite street occupied at the present by Mr. and Mrs. H. Bradway, and James Justeson will occupy a small office building near the Green Bay and Western depot which will bring him close to the warehouses of the Albert Miller company, with which he is affiliated.

Phil Darling is secretary of the Credit Production company, and Hugh Olson is local director of the Farm Loan association.

Darboy—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Aschauer, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schaefer, Mr. Henry Schwalbach, Mrs. Hannah Fischer and John Fischer were among those from here who attended the picnic at St. James church at Cooperstown on Sunday. Father Huslein, pastor of St. James church, formerly was pastor of Holy Angels church here.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl DeMars and family of Green Bay, and Mr. and Mrs. William Mader and family were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hartmann Sunday.

The Rev. E. J. Schmitt left Tuesday morning for Colorado Springs where he will spend several weeks.

Plans are being made for the picnic that will be held on Holy Angels church grounds on Sunday, Aug. 27.

Plan Statewide GOP Meeting in Appleton

Dr. C. L. Kolb, Outagamie county Republican chairman, will attend a state Republican central committee meeting at Madison Monday and Tuesday to discuss plans for a statewide Republican meeting in Appleton. The date for the meeting will be set and committees selected during the following week at Stevens Point.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, uric acid, pusiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Vandenbrook Is Winner in Boys Tennis Tourney

Defeats Tom Brenzel in Finals of Intermediate Meet

Kaukauna—J. Vandenbrook won the intermediate boys' tennis tournament this week by defeating Tom Brenzel 6-3, 6-2. Vandenbrook gained the right to play in the finals when he won his match with F. Nack, 6-2, 6-1. Brenzel defeated D. Reichelt, 7-5, 6-4, in the second round.

In the first round matches D. Reichelt defeated J. Reichelt, 6-5; T. Brenzel defeated D. Kiffel, 6-2; F. Nack won from S. Dene, 6-3; and J. Vandenbrook best C. Egan, 6-4.

In the junior tennis tourney for boys in the 15 and 17 year old class, Jack Winn will play Herman Franz and William Alger will meet Clarence Vandenzen in the semi-finals.

Pairings for the city men's singles tennis championship follow: Robert Cooper will play Herman Franz; Harold Stuber will meet Art Koehn and S. Sigman will play Jerome Parman. Pack Hatchell was defeated by W. Dowling, 6-0, 6-0, in the second round the latter will meet the winner of the Sigman-Parman match in the semi-finals.

The Modern Shoes defeated the Bastians by a score of 19-7 in the intermediate league softball league Wednesday morning at the library diamond. M. Niez pitched for the winners and C. Egan was on the receiving end. Batteries for Bastians were D. Coon and H. Heindel.

On Monday the Getz Tavern nine took a 1-0 game from the Bastians with J. Ledy pitching and S. Arnoldussen catching for the winners. Coon and Heindel again were batteries for the Bastian team.

Tigers Beat Cubs
In the boys' baseball league the Tigers defeated the Cubs, 6-4, Tuesday morning at the ballpark. It was the first league game in the second half in the boys' baseball league. G. Mathis and T. Brenzel formed the batteries for the Cubs and E. Risau and H. Femal for the Tigers.

The intermediate boys' horseshoe singles tournament will start at 1:30 Friday afternoon on the library courts. Clifford H. Kemp, recreational director, announced today.

The Kimberly All-Stars will play the Kaukauna All-Stars in a game scheduled for 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at the library diamond. The best players, between the ages of 14 and 16 years in the boys' leagues are picked for inter-city competition.

The Wolves, midge loop, team captained by Dick Brown, are leading the league in the second round with three victories and no losses. The Tigers, captained by J. Sanders won the first round.

The Lions defeated the Tigers, 10-9, in the midge softball league this week and the South Side Merchants defeated the Cubs, 3-2. G. Mathis and E. Gast were batteries for the Merchants and W. Mitchell and L. Peters for the Cubs.

Adult and Juvenile Members of W.C.O.F. Hold Outing at Park
Kaukauna—Over 80 persons attended the picnic supper for adult and juvenile members of Women's Catholic Order of Foresters, Court No. 536, Wednesday afternoon and evening at LaFollette park.

Prizes were won by Mrs. Frank Schmidt at bridge, Mrs. Peter Brill at schafkopf and Mrs. E. Liethen at five hundred.

Mrs. L. N. Perry, chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Paul Seggelink, Mrs. Joseph Kline, Mrs. J. Schmidt, Mrs. Mrs. David Egan, Mrs. Mary Hoolihan, Mrs. Lena Thelen, Mrs. H. Keyzers, Mrs. Emil Leick and Mrs. Della Jansen.

Sealer Condemns One Pump Following Tests
Kaukauna—Out of a total of 99 appliances tested for weighing and measuring, only one gasoline pump was condemned, according to the quarterly report of the city sealer of weights and measures, Harold H. Frank, for the quarter ending June 30.

In the check-up and try-out work, 30 visits for checking in groceries were made and 1,250 articles tested; 15 visits to butchers with 51 items checked, and no shortages reported.

REPAIR BUILDINGS
Two of the Lawrence college buildings are being repaired at the present time. Workmen are applying.

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Mertes barbershop on Wisconsin avenue. William Dowling is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.

A scene like the above will be witnessed on the downtown street of Appleton Saturday morning when the Cole Brothers circus presents a good old-fashioned circus parade. The circus will play Saturday afternoon and evening performances at the Badger avenue showgrounds.

Old-Time Circus Parade Will Be Held in Appleton Saturday

Circus day like Dad knew it is on schedule for Appleton Saturday. The Cole Brothers circus will not only play the usual two performances, afternoon and evening, but it will trot out all its elephants, its tableaux wagons and floats, its clowns and animals for a parade Saturday morning.

The procession, nearly a mile in length, will leave the North Badger avenue grounds and move to College avenue. The parade will go east on College avenue to Superior, north on Superior to Washington.

Seggelink, Rohan Debate Council's Decision on Note
Alderman Defends City's Action in Cancelling Endorsements

Kaukauna—A verbal battle between Emmet Rohan, local attorney, and Alderman T. E. Seggelink, finance committee chairman, was the feature of the taxpayers' meeting for discussion of enforcing the payment of the $4,000 Moloch Machine and Foundry company's note to the city Wednesday evening at the civic auditorium. About 75 persons attended.

Rohan claims the city had no constitutional right to loan money to a private concern regardless of statute and that even if the council had a legal right to cancel the endorsements, the step should not have been taken as a question of public policy.

Replying to arguments advanced by Rohan and Arthur Hoolihan, who objected recently before the council, Alderman Seggelink said the city had, first, a right to establish an industrial fund, and second, a right to cancel the endorsements. He explained that the Wisconsin statutes provide that cities of the Fourth class may set up a fund, not to exceed $2,000, after a majority vote following a referendum. The voters of Kaukauna balloted more than 2 to 1 in 1934 in favor of setting up such a fund.

Ask For Funds
Seggelink further claimed that $2800 of the $4,000 loan was used to meet pay roll payments and that without the loan the plant would have closed, throwing a great burden in the form of relief on the taxpayers.

Hoolihan and Rohan stated that immediate steps would be taken to start a taxpayers' suit and asked for a subscription of funds from supporters of their viewpoint.

ing a new copper roof to Main hall, oldest of the buildings, and are replacing concrete spindles on the edge of the roof on Memorial chapel.

Metals Team Beats Machines to Boost Standing in League

Kaukauna—The Golden Metals increased their lead in the city softball league when they defeated the Kaukauna Machine Corporation team, 5-3, last night at the library grounds diamond.

Steger, the losing pitcher, allowed only six hits as against the eight hits his teammates got off Kuchelmeister of the Goldins, but wisdom in the first inning proved his undoing.

R. Kuhn of the Machines led the hitters with three hits in three trips to the plate. Thursday night the Ritz Tavern team will meet the Kaukauna Klubs.

Board of Review to Hold Night Meeting

Kaukauna—The board of review will hold its final session at 8 o'clock Friday evening in the council chamber at the municipal building. Mayor L. F. Nelson will preside at the meeting which is being held to enable those to be present who were unable to attend previous meetings held during the day.

New College Plan Explained to Club

Rotarians Hear Director Of Claremont Graduate Program

Kaukauna—Dr. Henry Cooke, director of the educational program for Claremont Colleges' Graduate school, Claremont, Calif., explained the plan whereby Claremont Colleges is avoiding the mass production education of large universities, when he spoke to members of the Rotary club yesterday noon at Hotel Kaukauna.

In discussing the plan, Dr. Cooke outlined the development of Pomona college from a single unit to a group of colleges known as a corporation, Claremont Colleges. The speaker mentioned that the father of Dr. Thomas N. Barrows, president of Lawrence, was one of the college's first graduates.

The group of colleges includes Pomona college, a liberal arts co-educational school, Scripps college for women and a college for male students which has not yet been founded. The purpose of the over-head holding corporation over the entire group is to award degrees for graduate study. Each college maintains its individuality, Dr. Cooke said, yet greatly minimizes the running expenses for each.

A recent innovation is the fact that faculty members are elected by the board of trustees to aid in governing the institution. The corporation has a noted oriental library with one of the eight American men in the United States who can read Japanese as its director.

Schmalz Named Eagle Convention Delegate

Kaukauna—Ray Schmalz was elected delegate to the Grand Aerie convention at Chicago in August when the Fraternal Order of Eagles met Wednesday evening at Odd Fellow hall.

Plans were made for a midnight amateur show on Saturday evening, Aug. 5, at the Rialto theater. The program will be composed of amateur acts put on by the members and the show will be open to members only.

Charters to be Presented To Three New Lions Clubs

Kimberly—Presentation of charters to the newly organized Lions clubs of Kimberly, Wrightstown and Little Chute, at Rainbow Gardens, Tuesday evening, July 25, will be made by District Governor D. G. Fanslau, Two Rivers, and the president of each club will receive the charter for his organization.

Ray Schelfhout, charter night chairman, announced that the occasion is not restricted to Lion members and that tickets may be obtained from him any time before July 21. The Kaukauna club is sponsoring the joint celebration.

Mrs. B. Russell, a dietitian at the Moody Institute, Chicago, is spending her vacation here with her daughter, Mrs. L. C. Smith. Dr. and Mrs. B. J. Ouellette left this week for Milwaukee where they will attend the dental convention. They will return to their home Friday.

The board of directors and the credit union committee and their wives will have a picnic at Sunset Point Thursday, July 27. A covered dish party will be served on the grounds. The committee in charge includes Harold Hoolihan, Edward Skotzke and John Vanden Berk.

Forty and Eight Will Name State Delegates

Kaukauna—Election of officers and delegates to the American Legion state convention Aug. 12, 13, 14 and 15 in Oshkosh is scheduled for the meeting of the Outagamie County Voture No. 1140, Forty and Eight, at 8 o'clock Thursday evening at Legion hall.

Commitment Services Held for Mrs. Nichol

Waupesa—Commitment services for Mrs. Mary G. Nichol, 83, of the Wisconsin Veterans Home were conducted at Forest Home cemetery at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon by the Rev. Dr. Swan of the Congregational church. Services were held at the Holly Funeral Home at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon for Mrs. Nichol, who died Friday, July 14.

A daughter, Mrs. L. S. McNichol, Oshkosh, survives. Mrs. Nichol was the widow of John H. Nichol who enlisted in the Civil war as a drummer boy when 13 years of age. At the time of the mustering of troops in the World war he played a conspicuous part in the activities at Madison by standing on the capitol steps with his drum.

Jury Finds Traffic Death Accidental

Kaukauna—A coronor's jury Wednesday afternoon found that A. C. McIntyre, Kaukauna, met death last Saturday evening in an unavoidable accident. McIntyre was fatally injured while crossing the intersection of Wisconsin avenue and Lawe street, going east, in an accident involving a car driven by Mervin Dallman, route 1, Menasha, who was driving south.

Witnesses examined by Raymond P. Dohr, district attorney, were Mervin Dallman and Josephine Fellkoter, driver and occupant of the car that struck McIntyre; Harold Engerson, city traffic officer; Dr. A. E. Bachhuber, physician who took charge following the accident; Jerome Koch, Albert Hoppe and Harvey Derus, who told what they saw at the scene of the accident; and James Garvey, who was approaching the intersection in an automobile at the time of crash and who was an eye witness.

County coronor H. E. Ellsworth's jury included Jacob Miller, Charles Phillips, Charles Curry, Clem Hilgenberg and William Doering. Most tornadoes occur in May, June and July.

Get Oxygen in Your Blood and You'll Get the Pop that Sends You Bounding Up the Stairs
People who smother to death die because oxygen has been completely cut off from them. Just as surely you are slowly smothering if your blood lacks red corpuscles.
Red corpuscles are your oxygen-carriers.
They carry the oxygen you breathe in to every part of your system. Without enough oxygen-carrying corpuscles, your kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels slow down. Your skin gets pale, flabby, often pimply. Your nerves may become jittery—you tire quickly—feel depressed.
What you need is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.
These world-famous pills help make more and better red corpuscles and thus increase the oxygen-carrying power of your blood.

THE PEOPLE'S MONEY IN LOUISIANA

The indictment of Louisiana political overlords by a federal grand jury gains a sinister significance from the fact that Louisiana political overlords have been indicted before by federal grand juries and the indictments dismissed coincident with the accused suddenly "seeing the light" and becoming "of the faith." And yet the investigation, whether it is to be used as a weapon for the control of delegates next summer or not, is of rare educational value in other respects. It points the way the self-styled "friends of the people" operate upon the people they claim to love so much. Certainly they make public funds answer numerous purposes.

Mr. Weiss, one of the Big Three, and one indicted some years ago before the machine had bent the knee to Washington, is the head of a great hotel of 700 rooms and 700 baths in New Orleans. When the Bienville Hotel, a struggling competitor was unable to do any good for itself but hurt Weiss with its competition, it occurred to the Big Three, according to the indictment, to turn the Bienville Hotel into an adjunct of the University and so it was bought for the purpose of making it into a nurses' home. The price paid was $775,000. But the deal went over so smoothly and complaints were so few that those involved, like a man who has sold his horse and then figures he might have gotten more, began to look around for extras. Although the indictment charges the original transfer included the Bienville Hotel and all its furnishings and belongings another deal was arranged whereby the furnishings would also be sold to the state which already owned them. And for that the men and women with the bent backs at toil out in the rice fields and plowing in the sugarcane put up another $75,000.

The indictment, although it does not mention the amount the Big Three received by way of velvet out of the $775,000 paid for the hotel alleges that of the $75,000 again paid for the furnishings Prexy Smith received 20 per cent, Weiss 25 per cent and the balance was divided among several others including some necessary stooges employed to pass title.

If these allegations are all true—and it would appear that an indictment would hardly dare name some of them unless they rested upon written instruments—we doubt whether those involved as accused persons are in the blackest group of society since their plan was just a rough sort of gruff bungle.

The more dangerous enemies to the state are those who conceal their profits in various forms of hides that may be the political kin of the holding company in commercial ventures.

The ordinary run of people have many friends in high places. We wouldn't have any decent government today unless this was true. But the self-appointed ones, those who would make "every man a king" or "every man a millionaire" are mere charlatans like unto those who promise by weird rites to turn copper into gold.

"SELF-LIQUIDATING" MAY STING

The Roosevelt program for public works of a "self-liquidating" character should have approval provided an honest and practical means is created of determining what is self-liquidating.

It is obvious that the expression may be only a misleader. The President might claim the Florida Ship Canal as self-liquidating. He claimed dear old Quoddy out on that bleak Maine coast would be self-liquidating. It is obvious that the determination of this question cannot be left to merely political minds, certainly not of the Roosevelt type.

The bill introduced in congress displayed some pretty wise politics by providing that the RFC, conducted by Jesse Jones of Texas, would be employed to supervise borrowing and lending. This is an effort to capitalize upon Mr. Jones' record which has been good. It may be remembered that Mr. Jones is such an excellent politician that he used the cat-o-nine-tails upon the bankers to lash them into loaning money to everyone but saw to it that his own great bank down in Texas didn't do anything quite so wild.

The proposed act gives RFC supervision of that portion to be spent for railroad equipment and lodges in it also jurisdiction over the Export-Import Bank. But it appears that the other "self-liquidating" projects are to be under the management of other agencies and that a different type of politician will be able to pull the levers. These projects include toll bridges, rural electrification, general public works, post roads and the like. In this respect the bill is highly dangerous.

Mr. Jones, as demanded by the exigencies of the Roosevelt administration, says one thing to the public and does another thing in private, because if he did in private what he talks in public collapse would come quickly to the country. It is a sad commentary upon modern day government to say that Mr. Jones seems to be a necessity.

But if the administration plans to throw some meat to the wolves by permitting its pinkest sections to qualify as judges of what is self-liquidating we are merely in for another geyser of good spring water upon barren desert.

LOTS OF "PERFECT CRIMES"

Mr. and Mrs. Burgunder probably suffered the most agonizing non-physical pain when they listened down at Phoenix to a jury find their 22-year-old son guilty of murder and sentence him to death in a gas chamber.

The father of this boy was a prosecutor in the state of Washington. He sought to take the blame for the double murder of which the youth was guilty by attributing his wildness to the fact that he had heard his father prepare and present criminal cases. Overcome by grief this father forgot that we have had thousands of prosecutors in America who had sons 22 years of age who didn't go wrong.

The mother made an equally pitiful attempt to shoulder some share of the blame by criticizing herself for writing the boy a sharp letter, as though millions of mothers haven't written their sons occasional sharp letters without turning them to murder.

It would take a flint-hardened person to look upon these parents without sympathy. But it should not require the same hardness of heart to realize that this boy was a killer, was bound to be a killer, couldn't be altered from the status of killer, irrespective of whether his father was a prosecutor or his mother took him to task for some smaller delinquency.

He didn't want to attend school. He resisted the efforts of his parents to qualify him for something better than common labor. He resisted the warning of his father that crime couldn't possibly be made to pay and he became hostile to the kind words of his religion that tried to make him realize that if he murdered some innocent person he could not complain if, in turn, his life were taken from him.

And so he considered the details of a great crime whereby he would destroy two lives which would give him possession of a new automobile, and then he would travel gaily over the country enjoying himself evermore. When his plans were concluded he considered them practically foolproof, looked upon them as tops in cleverness. Actually they were as stupid as a stumbling ox.

Real killers represent extreme cases. Once they are identified the public has but one recourse in its own protection, to see to it that their opportunity for further savagery is entirely eliminated.

OLDSTERS "TAKE" A LOT

The people of North Dakota have played fast and loose with the oldsters. In the 1938 general election they approved the $40 pension for those with bent back and gray hair.

Thus the people were kind-hearted and magnanimous.

But voting a gift and making a gift, as the oldsters have found, are two wholly different propositions. And North Dakota emphasized the difference when it went to the polls the other day at a special election and refused to approve the means proposed of raising the money to pay the pensions.

So, as elsewhere throughout the nation, the generation of age and decrepitude obtains a smile, a handshake, a wish of "good luck"—but nothing more.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

THE PILGRIMAGE

She dwelt so long beneath Death's quiet wings. He came at last like a familiar friend. Giving her the support a true friend brings. And strength to bear the painful journey's end.

She had no dread, his footsteps were so light. Only a rustle on the shadowed stair. Already hung with garlands of the night. A whispered beckoning and he was there.

How beautiful a pilgrimage can be. When there are friendly steps to match our own! She made her way into Infinity. With one beside her whom she long had known.

His presence brought her instant happiness; His touch was pain's immediate release. We know at last her valiant footsteps press Into the byways of eternal peace.

Opinions of Others

ROOSEVELT MUST BEAR THE BLAME
Senator Clark of Missouri raised some embarrassing questions in a Fourth of July address which was reprinted in the July 11 issue of the Congressional Record. He was opposing the administration's policy on neutrality, assailing in particular its theory that the present neutrality law has been a failure. How could it be a failure, he asked, when it has never been invoked? On the contrary, he said, the president has "flatly disregarded the plain terms of an act which he signed himself," has "tragically disregarded the specific provisions of the law which required him to put the Neutrality Act into effect," in the case of the existing war between Japan and China. The Chinese-Japan situation, he argued, represents a failure of the executive department to enforce the plain provisions of a public statute.

The senator from Missouri said he approved of some parts of Senator Pittman's proposed substitute, but contended that other parts would

DALE HARRISON'S
In Old New York

New York—How about a few stories—nice, innocuous stories?

A well known comedian told this one on Jake Shubert, the theatre owner. A play was being rehearsed. An actor was required to speak a line which included a reference to Omar Khayyam. When he spoke the line at the rehearsal, Mr. Shubert interrupted. "It is 'Omar of Khayyam.'" The actor remonstrated, but Shubert insisted: "It is 'Omar of Khayyam.'" The following day a friend got to Shubert and told him that the actor had been right; that there is no "of" in Omar Khayyam. Mr. Shubert naturally didn't feel like backing down on the matter, so he betthought himself of some means of getting out of the situation gracefully. Therefore, at the next rehearsal he addressed the cast: "The Play," he said, "is running a bit too long. We gotta cut something out. He thereupon leaped through the script, calling for the elimination of a few "ands" and "buts." He came to the "Omar Khayyam" line. Clearing his throat, and speaking very solemnly, he said: "And also, when you come to the line 'Omar of Khayyam,' we will, for purposes of brevity and condensing, eliminate the 'of'!"

Will Fyffe was eulogizing Frank Lloyd, the Hollywood movie producer-director. "We were making one of the big scenes in his new picture," Fyffe said. "There were about 300 actors, mostly extras, in it. That's a lot of people for a director to keep an eye on, yet out of that crowd Lloyd noticed one young lady who staggered slightly and who remained on her feet only with difficulty. He walked over to her and said: 'You are not feeling well, are you?' The girl smiled wanly. 'Not very well,' she answered, 'but I'm sure I'll be able to carry on, Mr. Lloyd.'"

"The director called an assistant. 'Take this girl and fill her full of ham and eggs and whatever she wants,' he said. To the girl he said: 'Don't worry, child. We won't need you in this scene—and you'll get paid just the same. Everything's going to be all right.'"

A man stands at intervals in a window of the Chicken Farm, at the Bar, and a sign near him states he will pay the sum of $300 to anyone who can make him smile. The fellow stands there about 15 minutes at a stretch, and crowds gather and do everything they can to get his frozen face to change expression.

That in itself is not especially unusual. What impressed me was this: the other afternoon I happened to be inside the Farm as the man finished his exhibition. The crowd had been all but standing on its head in its efforts to bring a smile to his face, without success. As he stepped from the window, however, his face no longer in view of the crowd, I was amazed at what happened. The features which had remained frozen in the window suddenly twisted into every conceivable expression—grimaces, grins, laughs, smiles. It was sort of a physiological hysteria, as though his features, like nerves long taut, were suddenly loosed in abandon.

This same actor appeared for a time in "Hellzapoppin'" where a $100 reward was offered anyone who could make him smile. One night he came off the stage and one of the chorus girls approached him. "Let me see you smile," she said. "I don't believe you can." The man's face lit up a smile, whereupon the chorus girl cried: "Give me the $100! I made you smile!"

The man, angered at having been tricked, said: "I won't do it. We are working together. You aren't entitled to the money."

The little chorus girl still thinks she's been gypped.

Is this irony? Zimmy, the fellow who swam down the Hudson from Albany to New York a few years ago, will appear for one week in a tank on the outside of a Broadway Odditorium. The tank is located where, in the days when the site was occupied by the Hollywood restaurant, there was a large sign showing dancing girls—mostly legs. Zimmy, the swimmer, is—legless.

Looking Backward
10 YEARS AGO
Thursday, July 18, 1929
R. A. Greb, general manager of the Clintonville Canning company, had been elected a director of the First National bank at Clintonville.

Three Neenah boats were entered in the annual Inland Lakes yacht regatta which was to be held at Lake Minnetonka Aug. 19 to 23. They were Lilhouette, a new Class A boat owned by Jack Kimberley with Mr. Kimberley as skipper; and Neenah, skippered by Horace Dubois, Rodrick Ott and Gordon Ott as crew; his class E boat owned by James Kimberley, skippered by himself, with James Shea and John Art as crew; and the Nantuck owned and skippered by Frank Shattuck, Jr., who was to be assisted by Marks Jorgenson of Appleton.

The common council reconsidered its action of a previous meeting and voted not to widen Oneida street that year.

25 YEARS AGO
Thursday, July 23, 1914
Wednesday night was the hottest and most uncomfortable thus far that summer. At midnight the temperature was 80 degrees.

William Hartswood of Binghamton had purchased a new Case threshing machine and soon was to begin threshing rye and barley in the neighborhood of Binghamton.

In spite of the heat, over 4,000 people attended the Forster picnic the previous day at Waverly Beach. Among prize winners were Joseph Kuehn, Joseph Baum, Frank Verrier, William Sigl, Mrs. J. Berro, Mrs. Louis Schwab, Miss Mildred Heller, Miss Cecil Halls, Miss John Hoffman, Miss Christine Hoffman, Mrs. John Dick, George McGinn, Eugene Peersboom, A. Long, George McGinn, Clarence Cristle, Carl Hassman and Ray Reider.

L. H. Keller, assistant manager of the Prudential Insurance company, Appleton, was in Neenah on business the previous day.

be unnecessary if the president could be "brought to carry out his plain duty under existing law." Concerning Mr. Pittman's suggestions of stern measures toward Japan, the Missouri said:

I do not like Japan. I do not like its ideology or its conduct. But I am not willing to send American boys to fight 7,000 miles from home in order to back up Senator Pittman's hatred of Japan.

Reliance in the senate and out to grant a freer hand to the Roosevelt administration in dealing with problems of neutrality arises from many causes, among them being deep distrust of the New Deal's foreign policy. Whether they are right or wrong many Americans believe that the president and his advisers have already thrown their hearts into the cause of Great Britain and France, as against Italy and Germany; that an inevitable consequence of giving wider latitude to the president in his respect would be an easy translation of sympathy into active and open assistance.

When to this feeling are added painful recollections of the New Deal improvisations in the field of international debate, improvisations entered into merely to distract attention from domestic problems, senatorial reluctance to trust the president further becomes all the more intelligible. It is unfortunate for the nation that this is so, for the fact that it is so, Mr. Roosevelt himself is to blame.—New York Sun.

A Bystander
In Washington

BY SENATOR ELBERT D. DEMOCRAT, UTAH

(Pinch-hitting for Preston Grover, on vacation.)

Washington—In 1854 Japan was opened to world trade. Persons of the west therefore assume that her strength and her progress should be measured from that date to the present.

Japan became a significant world power during the World War. But Japan had been a very powerful state, maintaining an advanced civilization and culture for centuries before the war.

THOMAS
hundreds of years. When Japan closed her doors to the foreigners it was deliberate. Christian missionaries and foreign traders had access to Japan during the 16th century when the people of Europe were spreading over the globe.

Japan did not like the foreign contact and its probable political significance. So she turned her back to the west and adopted a foreign policy copied from China whose theory was represented by the Chinese wall—the world's greatest monument to a foreign policy.

When Japan decided to make herself a national state on a western model, she accepted western theory of conquest and control which was so popular among the imperialistic states of Europe during the last half of the 19th century. Japan now is conspicuous in the continued application of this theory and in her attempts to be imperialistic according to the western fashion as it was revealed to her.

New Law of War
Her actions seem crude to us for two reasons: First, her imitation is two generations behind our times. Second, the west evolved along with her conquests a semblance of respect for a doctrine of the Law of War which recognizes certain rights and certain protections for women and children and other non-combatants.

Japan, too, accepted that theory and had respect for it during her wars with China and Russia and in the World War. But since her attack on China she has not respected that law. Japan justifies her acts today on a theory which evolved as a result of the World War: That as nations no longer fight with armies alone, but use every available means of destruction, therefore the victims of war are not just to be soldiers but potential soldiers and all who contribute directly or indirectly to the success of the military.

The curse to civilization as a result of the war in the Far East will be heavy indeed for the world to bear if the Chinese, when they start fighting back, accept this doctrine of promiscuous destruction. The military state of China in formation today is being built from the ground up. One of the most complete military nationalisms the world has ever known is being founded.

That nationalism may be built upon hate of the Japanese, because in Japan are centered all of the grievances that China during the last three or four generations has had against foreigners. Japan's attempt to dominate may thus result in a crushing loss to her own people and power. This should be avoided not only for Japan's sake, but for the world's sake.

Fundamental theories and institutions of both Japan and China's culture are built upon theories of peace, economic democracy within the nations and restraint. If Asia's bulk of populations is to be turned into a mass of hate the world has indeed a concern of the most gigantic magnitude to cope with.

China's great generation has so far kept her people and her arms under restraint. That the adjustment in the Far East shall come before there is a change in this policy should be the endeavor of all friends of world peace and welfare.

The war in China today is one of the saddest and in many respects one of the most useless, but its direful consequences may be even more terrible. If Japan should get control of all that the ordinary man calls China, Japan will govern territories over a hundred times the size of our own country with a population about four times the number of ours.

If such a mass of people is exploited and crushed, world economics will be retarded for a generation. If they are organized for military conquest, world peace will be impossible.

WANTS OPEN MEETING
Editor Post-Crescent—Just why should the Dept. of Agriculture take a sudden notion to arrest just 4 or 5 farmers for selling milk direct to the consumer, when there are hundreds of others doing likewise. After all a farmer should have a right to sell his products at a reasonable price.

Milk is the only source of income the farmer can depend on the year-round and when he has to pay taxes, buy seeds, clothing and new machinery at a cent a quart he hasn't anything left.

At 5 cents a quart he can exist and give somebody else a job, besides that it will take the surplus off the market.

SIMPLE, ISN'T IT?

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—There is a well-defined thought in many Republican minds that Dr. F. L. Gullickson's recent a nouncement of his forthcoming retirement from the chairmanship of the state Republican committee was a gesture to elicit a vote of confidence from the committee and the party at its September convention, and that he will be very willing to keep the chairmanship if it is tendered to him.

In effect, that was what happened at the post-inaugural party conference last January. Faced with some serious internal criticism of his leadership, Gullickson offered to step down. But the party conference, a rousing happy group in the midst of a victory celebration, shouted down his critics and insisted that the dentist-chairman remain.

At the same time, however, there is talk of ambitions by others for the job. One of the candidates, it has been said recently in Madison Republican circles, is Elmer R. Honkamp, Eighth district chairman, although Honkamp has said nothing to indicate that he is in the running.

FORCED ECONOMY?
Judging only from the frequency with which the idea is suggested by high-ranking Republican legislators there seems to be a good chance that the legislature will adjourn leaving a deficit of a million or two millions, thus forcing the administration under the direction of Governor Heil to economize to make appropriations match tax receipts. One senator was heard to say that it would be the surest means to effect the economy which has been something less than sensational thus far.

UNIVERSITY HURRY
Some persons, including the pilot of this column, feel that the University of Wisconsin regents and President Dykstra appeared to be in quite a hurry to increase student fees at the university for next fall. Early this month they approved a university budget of $9,319,763, which entails an additional fee cost to every student of $5 a semester, although the students don't return to the campus until the third week in September.

At the same time the regents practically closed up shop, indicating that they expect a new Heil-appointed board to succeed them very soon. Some observers are uncharitable enough to make note of the fact that the levy of the extra fees just before their retirement will make some 12,000 university students very angry at the Heil administration when they return to the campus. The new regents might possibly have found a way to avoid it, it is said.

President Dykstra says that there is "a deep rooted feeling against" higher fees for the students, many of whom are borrowing the money to attend the university. "But we owe it to the state and the students as well to keep up the quality of university work and of our faculty by every possible means."

But some people wonder—and again this column is among them—whether much consideration was given to the possibility that the deficit at the state school could have

I LIKE DOWAGERS EVEN WHEN

Don't be terrified, I said in a recent article when you sight a dowager bearing down on you. Pull in your chin, take a couple of belly breaths and stand your ground. Chances are at least 50-50 she will prove as pleasant a person as you could wish to chat with. But for goodness sake, don't think of her as elderly.

Now I considered that almost a boast. But it only goes to show. Unfortunately, in the attempt to define dowager, I had just opined that it seems too bad that corpulence should parade as dignity. That was all I had against dowagers as an institution.

It seems I was flippant, intolerably vulgar and in very poor taste and the space given to my cheap comedy might better be devoted to material of value to readers.

Just the same I like 'em, going on coming, and if I have offered one or given her even any embarrassment I sincerely repent, for I tell you I like 'em, especially when they hold true to character and speak plainly at a time when a bit of plain speaking is indicated.

In the article dealing with dowagers I quoted the rule formulated by a life insurance statistician that two years should be deducted from an individual's life expectancy for every inch one's girth exceeds one's chest measurement after the age of thirty-five.

From my own experience I infer that the dowagers who resented my remarks were annoyed particularly by the ruthless way I robbed them of years of life.

A similar observation, also made by a life insurance expert, was quoted here recently, to the effect that one may deduct, what was it, 25 minutes? from one's life expectancy for every cocktail or highball, according to the experience of insurance companies in reference to the habits of policy-holders. My allusion to this brought forth the usual shower of exaggerated instances to the contrary.

Then still another observation, this one my own, aroused considerable animosity. I said that a person should deduct a year or two from his or her life expectation for every tooth lost by accident, disease or mutilation and not promptly replaced by a functionally efficient denture—and I believe this rule is as sound as any "rule" bearing on health or life. My conviction is not at all shaken by reports of freak instances of edentulous individuals surviving, on a feeble plane but unquestionably alive, to a ripe old age.

Not that I derive any wicked pleasure from telling people they are taking the wrong course. But some one has got to do it, and I don't mind such criticism at all. An occasional quiet word from some reader who takes it as I mean it is ample compensation for my contribution.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Vitamin B-Complex
Kindly mention in your column what the vitamin B complex consists of, which some of your readers recommended for restoring color to gray hair. (H. F. L.)

Answer—Vitamin B-complex, of which vitamin B<sub>1</sub> or thiamin, vitamin B<sub>2</sub> or riboflavin, nicotinic acid, antidermatitis factor, anti-gray hair factor, etc. The last is so named because it seems to retard or prevent graying of the hair of rats with age. Whether it has such effect in human beings, I do not know. Perhaps people beginning to be gray just feel better, when they supplement their regular diet with vitamin B complex, and see the dark hairs, not the gray, when they scrutinize their hair. Many have declared that an iodine ration stops graying of their hair. A few even assert that their gray hair has been restored to its original color. I don't know. It can do no harm, usually improves general health and well being, to try both.

Just a Step
Behind the News

By Dave Boone

When Dizzy Dean, Governor Dickinson and the stock market shove the International Settlement, Adolf Hitler and the Polish Corridor off the front page, it's a pretty good sign things are getting better. A few weeks ago, this would have been impossible even if Dizzy had denounced New York Irving and Governor Dickinson had cut his arm in a Broadway hotel.

It seems good to see the stock market ticker getting so hot that it has to change its oil. Stocks went up so quickly that brokers began taking out the folding beds and putting back customers' chairs. For the past year, it has been a major swing whenever a stock went up an eighth of a point.

Imagine stocks going up five to ten points at a clip! Why, it's unconstitutional. Washington will probably do something about it at once. It always has.

What makes the market suddenly so bullish puzzles some people, but I think it went up on the mere fact that Michigan made all the headlines instead of Europe for a couple of days, and the country finally got excited once more over old-fashioned things like a fight between ball players and the umpires and a dispute between a pitcher and his wife.

We'd have the biggest bull market in years if we could only get back where the "axis" was completely eclipsed by tidings from the nudist camps, a fight on a Coney Island excursion boat and the arrest of some fellow for going in bathing with only his trunks on.

Senate Policy on Neutrality Blow To Foreign Trade

European Democracies
May Give Business to South America—Lawrence

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Many hundreds of millions of dollars may be lost to American business by the decision of the senate foreign relations committee to do nothing at this session of congress with respect to the revision of the neutrality laws.

In many respects, the senate policy is the worst blow to economic recovery that has been yet administered. The effects of the action will be felt in the switching of peace-time trade which otherwise might have gone to the United States.

European governments have been waiting to see whether, in the event of war, they could depend on the United States, not for troops or naval aid, but for war supplies. The fact that President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull wanted the laws revised has caused the European governments to await the outcome of the present session. Now, in self-protection, they must begin to make plans for the manufacture of articles which will be needed in war time as they cannot longer depend on the United States.

The business affected is not merely that which might be shut off by present neutrality law is not revised, but other articles of commerce which are vital to European democracies. Thus, trade will naturally go to South American countries and other parts of the world where some guarantees will be forthcoming that, in the event of war, there will be no interruption.

Change in Canada
Perhaps the biggest single change in the commercial situation will be with respect to Canada, where preparations probably will be made soon to build certain factories for the assembling of the very war materials which the action of the senate foreign relations committee would not bar from shipment.

Thus, American business men will see their opportunities for manufacturing certain products pass to Canada and other countries. This so-called war trade is supposed to have been the cause of American participation in the last war, so it will be contended by the isolationists that it is better to lose the money than to involve American boys in a foreign war.

But the other side of that argument is that not only will trade in war-time articles be lost, but also certain peace-time commerce. Likewise, the belief of the allied governments abroad is that there will be no war if they can be fully prepared now and if they can make it known to the Germans and Italians that a steady stream of supplies will be available. Spokesmen for England and France insist that no troops will be needed from this hemisphere and that the airplane will decide the issue.

In order to demonstrate that the supplies will be forthcoming, it will be necessary for Great Britain and France to make arrangements with countries other than the United States. Argentina, for example, is said to be ready to develop some light manufacturing industries which can play a part in the making of war-time necessities. To be assured, however, that their capital will not be lost on plants built for war purposes, business men of other

Wisconsin Health

BY DR. CORNELIUS A. HARPER
State Health Officer

Wisconsin is now in the second year of an augmented program for the eradication of venereal diseases, and the results will soon be reflected in our vital statistics.

It was back in 1915 that Wisconsin undertook venereal disease control. That was a period when people and newspapers alike considered the subject too horrendous to mention, with the result that ignorance, of the workings of syphilis and gonorrhea made their increase all the easier.

The story reads differently from 1915 on, and today Wisconsin has a working program against these ailments that is going to gain the control over them that certain European nations now enjoy.

Located at convenient population centers are 13 clinics at which indigents who are afflicted with a venereal disease may secure treatment without charge.

Five recently appointed nurses bring to 10 the number of trained women workers who in addition to their clinical duties act as case finders and who see to it that enrolled patients continue to receive treatment.

Federal funds have made the augmented program possible. One result is an increase in reported new cases of venereal diseases, but this trend, just as in tuberculosis, will soon result in fewer deaths, because timely treatment can prevent death from these causes.

So that syphilis, called the great imitator because of the many forms it can assume, will soon be running off of disguises in Wisconsin.

er countries will demand a share of the normal trade. It is at this point that Europeans will begin to switch business.

Economic Recovery
Just what effect this may have on the delivery of airplane parts or on the setting up of new airplane factories across the Canadian border is difficult to say at this time, but that some change in the whole war trade set-up, including peace-time trade, is coming seems apparent. World trade is a big factor in economic recovery, and nations like the United States which cannot be depended upon to keep the necessary supplies going in war time will hardly expect to be favored as against countries which can assure a constant flow of goods both in war time and in peace time.

The Republican party in congress has been most active in blocking action on the neutrality law revision at this session and it cannot be contended in this instance that the Republicans have been acting at the behest of the business interest of the country. The theory behind the Republican attack has been that they could convince the country Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hull want to drag America into a foreign war, and that to agree to sell arms during a war would mean American participation. The president and the secretary of state, on the other hand, take the view that, if war comes, the senate's indifference may prove to have been an encouragement to Hitler and Mussolini, and that passage of the Hull program at this session of congress might have prevented a European war.

The issue will be taken to the country by the president, as predicted in these dispatches earlier this week. Again Mr. Roosevelt has been handed a campaign opportunity on a platter by the Republican minority, and, incidentally, the New Deal has been given campaign material on how the isolationist senators impaired good will between America and France and Britain and contributed to the loss of American commerce in peace-time products.

SCENE FROM 'FIVE CAME BACK'

Marking one of the most dramatic moments ever shown on the screen is this scene from the stark drama of an airplane flight, jungle crash and its aftermath, "FIVE CAME BACK." Twelve persons left Los Angeles on a south-bound transport plane; ran into a storm, and crashed near the Brazilian Andes, in a jungle infested with head-hunters. Only five of them could leave to find their way to safety—and a death-doomed anarchist decided who they would be! The picture features such notables as Chester Morris, Lucille Ball, Little Casey Johnson, Kent Taylor and Wendy Barrie, and starts Saturday at the Appleton Theatre. "BLOODIE TAKES A VACATION" will be shown on the same program, starring Penny Singleton, Arthur Lake and Larry Simms.

Wauwac—Mrs. C. W. Clements, Ames, Iowa, and her daughter are guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Woody at Wood-D Lodge, Columbian lake. Mrs. Clements husband was a cousin of the late Mark Twain.

The Misses Laura Shoemaker and Gertrude Knudsen, members of the high school faculty who are attending the summer session of the University of Wisconsin, spent the weekend at their homes.

Miss Pearl Chamberlain returned Sunday from a week spent with Miss Grace Loveland at Wauwatosa.

Miss Ruth Falgatter of New Haven, Conn., and her grandmother Mrs. D. Meyers of Lanark, Ill., are visiting at the home of her brother Don Falgatter and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Davidson are spending the summer at the home of the daughter Mr. and Mrs. Roy Plowman, Weyauwega.

Father Howard T. Mueller, Boston, Mass., and Arvey Gordon, Stevens Point, were guests of friends in Wauwac Tuesday. Father Mueller has been serving as supply in the Church of the Intercession of All Saints, Stevens Point, since the resignation of Father E. O. Rossmassler who left for West Park, N. Y. where he is entering Kent school. Father Mueller will leave July 26 for his regular parish in Boston.

In company with college classmates Father Mueller, Attorney Robert Babolitch, Arvey Gordon, and Orville Halverson, all originally from Stevens Point, spent the past week at Devils lake. The reunion was the fifth since the group graduated and decided to organize "The 35 Club."

Mrs. Charles Kading and daughter Katherine of Watertown, are guests of the former's mother Mrs. Katherine Nelson.

Horicon Marsh May be Refuge Federal Aid Available to State for Purchase Of Land

Washington — If Wisconsin will put up one-fourth of the cost, and if the Horicon marsh land can be bought and developed for around $49,000, the marsh may yet become a wild-life conservation project.

The bureau of the biological survey, now in the Department of the interior, has allotted to Wisconsin $36,808.90 for the current fiscal year, for development of wildlife resources. This fund comes, under the Pittman-Robertson act, from the income from the federal tax on firearms, shells and cartridges. It is allocated among the states on the basis of acreage and hunting licenses sold in the state.

indicate to Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes their desire to use the funds will forfeit their allotments for use in developing federal refuges, unless they indicate a desire to use the fund in the following year and show good faith in proposing a project or project, according to the announcement. Out of this federal tax fund, only 75 per cent of the cost of developing projects can be paid. The state must pay the other one-fourth, and must also have or pass state conservation laws including prohibition against diverting hunting-license

Box Car Wrecked, Another Derailed In Train Accident

Brakeman Escapes With Bruises as Caboose Stays on Track

New London—One box car was wrecked and another derailed when the twentieth car in a 22-car mixed passenger and freight train of the Green Bay and Western Railway left the rails and piled up just east of the crossing with County Trunk X at Northport about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

The No. 2 train was eastbound for Green Bay on its regular return trip from Winona, Minn. Its one passenger coach and baggage car were directly behind the locomotive and were not endangered by the accident.

Brakeman Louis Sorensen, Green Bay, who was riding in the caboose, escaped with minor bruises when he was thrown the length of the car by the impact. The caboose remained on the rails behind the two derailed cars. The rest of the train was unaffected and was halted by Engineer Jack Hickey of Green Bay about a mile beyond the scene.

The twentieth car left the rails and chewed up the ties about a quarter mile before it plunged off the roadbed and plowed up the ground. Both its trucks were sheared off and the car was thrown crosswise over the tracks, breaking in the middle. The car was reported heavily loaded with lumber, the one behind it with flour.

Sorensen said he was unable to stop the train for lack of compressed air after he discovered the plight of the car ahead of him. He estimated the train was traveling about 30 miles per hour at the time the accident occurred.

A wrecker of the Chicago and North Western railroad was sent out from Green Bay last evening to remove the debris.

Father Mortell, Menasha Pastor, Dies at Oshkosh

he was assigned to St. Mary Magdalen parish at Waupaca with a mission at Weyauwega. He also was chaplain at the Wisconsin Veterans' home.

After 18 years as pastor at Waupaca, he was appointed to St. John parish in Oshkosh in December, 1919. While in this parish, on Sunday, June 13, 1926, he celebrated the silver jubilee of his ordination.

Eight years ago Father Mortell was assigned to St. Patrick parish in Menasha following the death of the Rev. George Clifford.

Father Mortell was a diocesan consultant and also an examiner for the junior clergy. While he was in Oshkosh, he became an active member in the state historical society. It was through his efforts that the tablet in Menominee park was dedicated by the Winnebago County Archaeological and Historical society. This tablet commemorates the offering of the first mass celebrated in this vicinity by Father Allouez, S. J., on April 20, 1670.

Survivors are Miss Zetta Mortell, Menasha; Miss Veronica Mortell, Milwaukee; Dr. John F. Mortell, Oshkosh; Dr. C. A. Mortell, Fond du Lac; Victor R. Mortell, Shullsburg, Wis.; Dr. Gerald J. Mortell, Green Bay, and 14 nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 o'clock Monday morning at St. Patrick church where the office of the dead will be recited by the clergy at 9:30. Burial will be in St. Margaret Mary cemetery.

Boy Scouts Will be Swimming Within 2 Weeks in New Pool

Steam shovel operations in the new swimming pool being constructed at Gardner Dam valley council camp, will end Saturday and work will start on the graving of the sides of the pool and the construction of diving equipment.

Clarence H. Engberg, council executive, said yesterday that the pool will be completed "within two weeks." Ray McCarty, Kaukauna, is the contractor. The pool will be 200 feet long and 75 feet wide at the bottom. A diving platform, 12 by 24 feet in size, will be built on the deep end of the pool, where the water will be nine feet in depth.

Work has started at Gardner Dam on the landscaping of the Miner camp grounds. The ground is being leveled off and improved around the main Miner camp building and the two log cabins. It is planned to plant larger trees near the camp this autumn.

Pastor Is Honored at Luncheon of Kiwanis

The Appleton Kiwanis club held a farewell party for the Rev. D. E. Bosserman yesterday noon in the Conway hotel. The Rev. Mr. Bosserman, pastor of the Trinity English Lutheran church, is leaving Appleton for a post in Chicago.

Turn Down Proposed Additions to State Trunk Road Systems

The assembly at Madison today killed 12 bills, one from Outagamie county, calling for about 2,000 miles of additions to the state trunk highway system.

It was proposed to make old Highway 41 from McCarthy's crossing north of Kaukauna to Appleton part of Highway 96.

Other counties for which measures were turned down are Langlade, Shawano, Waupaca, Fond du Lac, Sauk, Lincoln, Buffalo, Monroe, Juneau, Wood, LaFayette, Green, Marathon, Price, St. Croix and Polk.

ployees would participate in the holiday.

At noon, Milwaukee WPA officials reported that about 500 workers, including an estimated 100 skilled men, had walked out. Officials said none of the 4,500 "white collar" workers joined the demonstration. There are about 18,000 on WPA in Milwaukee county.

DISPUTED FIGURES

New York — (P) — Incomplete reports indicated that few workmen left their WPA jobs today in the national demonstration called by the Workers' Alliance.

There were disputed figures in New York and other cities but most WPA officials over the country said work was going on normally.

At Washington President David Lasser of the alliance said it would be two days before "we get the whole picture" of how many took part.

The demonstration was called as a protest against the new relief act's requirement that all on WPA put in a 130 hour month and that persons on the rolls 18 months be allowed to make room for new ones. The 130-hour requirement replaced the prevailing wage system.

Varied Estimates
Lieutenant Colonel Brehon B. Somervell, WPA administrator in New York city, said a check had indicated no more than 4,000 were going out there. Sam Weisman, alliance secretary, put the figure at more than 40,000.

In small towns, Lasser said, demonstrations probably would be confined to the lunch hour or after work but in larger cities, he said, workers "may be off on hour or two."

More than 400 police were assigned to Columbus circle in New York where the demonstration program included the hanging in effigy of Representative Woodrum (D-Va.) and Taber (R-N. Y.), who were members of the house committee which investigated WPA prior to passage of the new relief act.

SEE END OF STRIKE

Minneapolis — (P) — An end to Minneapolis 15-day-old WPA strike was in sight today as workers staged a final one-day protest against the new WPA regulations, then met to consider a peace plan already approved by their leaders.

Under its terms, dismissals for failure to report for work will stand, and workers seeking reinstatement must swear they did not break the law during the strike. Skilled workers may stay away from their jobs and picket peacefully but must not interfere with others and unskilled labor can be used to fill vacancies thus created.

The work interruption will be ignored in computing the 18 months work allowed before 30 day layoffs are required.

One hurdle to a settlement was removed last night when Mayor George E. Leach wrote Governor Stassen that he would "continue" to assume the full legal responsibility "falling upon this city as a co-sponsor of these projects."

The threat of federal prosecutions still hung over the strikers. United States Attorney Victor Anderson announced several violations of a law forbidding intimidation of WPA workers had been uncovered, and Federal Judge Robert C. Bell summoned a grand jury for next Monday to consider the evidence.

titions seeking the recall of the 80-year-old executive.

"You state," Corliss' letter to the governor said, "that you would be glad to sign the recall petition, which I can only construe to mean that you admit your conduct has not been altogether becoming the high office you now fill."

"On the other hand, your honest execution of the official duties and your competent administration of state affairs I believe deserves only praise."

In announcing his plans for the circulation of the petitions Corliss had said they would contain no specific charges, but would contain general allegations of "conduct unbecoming the chief executive of Michigan."

In today's letter advising he would "refrain from circulating" the petitions, Corliss told the governor his "only offense" was "your preachments upon domestic sins, your moralizing opinions, and your parental usurpation of the right to direct the people in the way of righteousness according to your own belief."

Washington — (P) — Attorney General Murphy branded today "Indefensible and absolutely unjust" remarks by Governor Luren D. Dickinson of Michigan in which Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's name was linked to drinking habits.

At his press conference, Murphy said:

"Mrs. Roosevelt does not need to have anyone speak for her. She's the most interesting and useful of all first ladies in history. I believe her social responsibility and matchless industry for action and her sense of tolerance is an inspiration to all the young people of this country."

Murphy is a former governor of Michigan.

Discussing Dickinson's remarks the attorney general said, "only a combination of reactionary politicians and bigots could spawn a thing of that kind and use him (Dickinson) to do it."

Murphy defended Dickinson as an "earnest and honest public official" and as one who "ought not to be misunderstood."

DEATHS

MISS GENEVIEVE AUDEN

Miss Genevieve Auden, 22, route 3, Kaukauna, died at 2 o'clock this morning in Appleton after a long illness.

Born in Kaukauna March 20, 1917, she attended St. Mary's school and the Kaukauna Vocational school.

Survivors are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Auden; three brothers, Wilbert, Lester, and Norbert; two sisters, Agnes and Rosamaine, route 3, Kaukauna.

Funeral services will be held at 8 o'clock Saturday morning at St. Mary's church, Kaukauna, with the Rev. A. Roder in charge. The body will be at Greenwood funeral home from this evening to the hour of services. Prayers will be conducted there at 8 o'clock tonight and tomorrow night.

DeGURE FUNERAL

Funeral services for Mrs. Louis J. DeGure, Algoma, who died Monday evening at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lillian Lausman, 403 N. Division street, were conducted Wednesday afternoon at Wichmann funeral home by the Rev. Carl Toepel, Algoma. Burial was in Riverside cemetery.

Bearers were Harold, Everette and George Lausman, Leonard Wolfe, Harold Young and Sylvester Kamps.

Elaine Barrie Is Awarded Salary as Actress in Play

New York — (P) — Elaine Barrie is no longer a member of the cast of "My Dear Children," starring her estranged husband, John Barrymore, but she still is entitled to $500 a week salary.

The American Arbitration association, in a decision on a suit by Actors' Equity, ruled—so yesterday, and awarded the dark-haired Elaine $4,562 back pay. The play is running in Chicago.

Miss Barrie said that when she quit the play in St. Louis after a quarrel with her husband he personally guaranteed her $500 a week until Dec. 31, 1939, if the play ran until then.

Barrie ordered the producers to withhold her salary, however, she said, after he filed suit of New York for an accounting of $300,000 by Miss Barrie, her mother, Mrs. Edna Jacobs, and David Fisher, financial adviser of Mrs. Jacobs.

Fair Weather Is Friday Forecast

Light Breeze Keeps Temperature in Comfortable Range Today

A light breeze kept temperatures in a pleasant range today with the thermometer on the roof of the Post-Crescent building registering 79 degrees early this afternoon. The weatherman seems to be looking on the brighter side of life and has shifted his usual prediction of cloudy weather to one of "fair to night and Friday; somewhat warmer Friday."

Nights this week have been ideal for sleeping while no heat discomfort has been experienced during the daytime. Maximum and minimum temperatures during the 24-hour period preceding 9 o'clock this morning were 82 degrees at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and 58 degrees at 4 o'clock this morning, according to records at the power plant of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

Highest and lowest temperatures in the nation reported at official weather bureau stations yesterday were at Phoenix, Ariz., with 107 degrees and Oakland, Calif., with 49 degrees, according to the Associated Press.

It Is Said--

That Stephen Peeters, Outagamie county register of deeds, has been carrying out his duties with some difficulty this week. Last weekend he went on a fishing trip and took with him a new outboard motor. He almost crippled his right arm attempting to start the motor and finally had to give up after some hundred attempts and resort to oars.

Another job has taken its place beside steam shovel operations as an attraction for curious onlookers. Some plate glass workmen were installing an expensive looking panel of glass in an Appleton drugstore yesterday morning, and you could hardly get by the corner where the store is located. When the men finally got the glass in place, spectators walked away somewhat disappointed. Heck, nothing happened.

Zoning, Baseball, Swimming Pool Concern Aldermen

amend the ordinance to include "beauticians" among those who can ply their trade in a residential area or give a special permit in this case.

The council, after considerable speechmaking, finally voted 12-6 not to change the zoning classification of the building, thereby outlawing the beauty shop. But the aldermen unanimously adopted a resolution, at Mayor Goodland's suggestion, that the ordinance committee bring in an ordinance amending the zoning law so that the council can give special permits in cases like this.

The path to the solution of this problem was not an easy one last night. There were barrages of resolutions, misunderstanding as to just what was being voted, and cries of "out of order."

Alderman Keller wanted the council to add "beauticians" to the list of those who may run offices or business rooms within a residential area—doctors, musicians, insurance agents, etc. He proposed that the ordinance committee draw an amendment up to this effect. Aldermen voted 13-5 in favor of the suggestion, then it was discovered that a three-quarter vote is necessary for an amendment providing a protest has been filed against it. It even went so far that "bypass" owners present at the meeting notarized the letter they had signed and sent to the council and testified to how much property in the affected area they own.

Alderman Bogan broached the matter of a swimming pool by remarking that Pierce park has a "natural location" for a pool, down in the ravine, with an amphitheater on the sides of which people could sit and watch any exhibitions that might be presented. He suggested that the council "build a big pool" in the park, let the children swim in it during the day and adults at night.

The Pool Again
Mayor Goodland said he had "been reliably informed" that there is an organization being formed in the city that plans to step out and raise a certain amount of money towards the pool, providing the city will match it. The American Legion auxiliary notified the council by letter last night that it was on record favoring action on this matter.

For the present, at least, baseball teams that use Spencer field at night must pay the city $27 for a game of hardball and $18 for a softball contest. Those figures, Mayor Goodland said, were arrived at by the city electrician and represent the least the city must get if it hopes to break even on the business.

Alderman Peter De Lain of the recreation committee said he had understood it would be only $10 for softball teams and that he was afraid higher charges would discourage teams from playing under the lights. After some discussion, the matter was referred to the recreation committee—but meanwhile, it's $27 on the line for hardball and $18 for softball.

Mayor Goodland last night asked the ordinance committee to draw up an ordinance prohibiting barbed wire fences within the city limits, terming the fences dangerous to children. Other cities have similar regulations, he said. He also informed the council that he had requested the park board to "tone down" the loudspeaker at Pierce park. People living near the park have complained at the volume.

The council, after completing its regular business, adjourned as a committee of the whole to act on the hiring of a janitor and set his salary. Frank Vander Boogaard, the present janitor, was re-appointed.

Street, Bridge Report

A report of the street and bridge committee containing the following items was adopted at last night's meetings:

Grading and graveling of Alice street between Drew and Union; construction of a sidewalk on Allie Drive from N. 1607 north for 70 feet to connect with present walk; that the property owners be notified that a sidewalk be required on W. Washington street in the rear of the M. reit building and the Badger Paint Store; installation of a sewer at N. Fair street, ciling Summer street west of Gillett street; preparing of plans by engineer for extension of Mason street sewer to include part of Winnebago street to high school;

Grading and graveling Lawe street; grading, graveling, and installation of sewer and water in Lot 1, Block 89, Third ward plat, free of charge providing lot is desired to the city by Dr. Edward F. Mielke; building of a sidewalk on the east side of Mueller street from Prospect avenue to Fourth street completion of the wall at the south end of Rankin street between Alton and John; oiling of private drive of Riverside mill, from Lawe street west to coal yard, and cost charged to owners; grading and graveling Lehman Lane from Cavanaugh avenue south and install sewer and water, the board of public works to assess

Game Between 'Skims' And City Fathers Is Slated for Wednesday

As was expected, the game between the city officials and the "Skim Milks" (the junior varsity) has been deferred from Friday night to next Wednesday evening.

Tired of being bat boys, the "Skims" have repeatedly recruited a dangerous lineup for the game with the first-stringers.

There are several reasons, both admitted and suspected, for changing the date for the game. One story has it that when the "Skims" held a secret practice session at Center Swamp, some of the players were so appalled at the squad's ineptness they wanted to cancel the tilt until next year.

The "Skims" claim that the real reason is that the city officials couldn't stand two games so close together. The municipal fathers managed to beat the Merchants girls Sunday night and the "Skims" declare the following Friday comes too soon to allow recuperation. Anyway, it makes a pretty fair story.

damages; accepting by the city of the county board's offer of 500 cubic yards of crushed stone at 50 cents per yard and authorizing of clerk to send check for amount.

Pending Bills Would Revolutionize State Elections, Deal Progressives Hard Blow

BY JOHN W. WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — A series of bills bearing the names of Republican authors now pending in the legislature proposes to revolutionize completely a state election system which has been largely unchanged for decades, and will have a tremendous adverse effect on one of Wisconsin's major political organizations, the Progressive party, an examination of the measures showed today.

Two of the bills are intended to benefit the Republican and Democratic state organizations, and one is certain to do so. The third is designed to prevent the Progressives from doing what the effects of the first two may persuade them to do, enter the old party elections to influence the choice of Democratic and Republican candidates.

The first bill would apportion between the Democratic and Republican parties some 20,000 election jobs in which the Progressives now share proportionately. By amending the law to provide that parties will share the jobs in proportion to their presidential vote, the Progressives will be excluded by the lack of a presidential ticket.

That bill, frankly designed to weaken the LaFollette party by depriving it of important patronage, has already passed the assembly. Passage is predicted for it in the senate.

Another bill which has already passed the lower house with a decisive vote would alter the ballot system by joining the state and presidential tickets in a single piece of paper handed to the elector at the polling booth. At present state candidates and local candidates are carried on one ballot, while the national ticket is separate.

By joining them, the Progressives feel they will be at a disadvantage because the beginning of their ticket, at governor, will be relatively far down on the long page. Not only will they be likely to be overlooked by the hurried voter, but the ease with which the elector can mark a straight ticket vote at the head of either the Republican or Democratic columns will react heavily against the Progressive slate in a national campaign year, when the candidates for president absorb most popular interest.

Republicans and Democrats who supported the measure in the assembly smilingly assented when Progressives complained that such an election device would weaken their party, and its candidates, particularly in the election scheduled in 1940.

Fight Proposed

Progressives after consulting their party chieftains fought desperately to defeat the proposal, and threatened openly to desert their own ticket to enter Republican and Democratic primaries if it becomes law. They pointed out that in the three party system, the balance of power in many legislative districts is such that a Progressive candidate could enter another party primary and dominate it, thus defeating the old parties' aims in sponsoring the ballot change.

Soon after that threat appeared in legislative debate the senate administration - controlled judiciary committee introduced a long and complicated bill which will have the effect of preventing such party bolting by the Progressives. It would freeze Progressives into the Progressive party, unless they are willing to register formally as Republicans or Democrats. It would restore many elements of the old indirect primary election system by reintroducing caucuses and nomination by conventions.

What measure of support the new bill has it has been difficult to determine. Although it bears the name of Senator Milton T. Murray, one of the most prominent administration men in the state senate, Murray did not appear for it at a recent hearing. Only proponent was R. O. Wiperman, who said he drew it up. Wiperman is frequently described as an unofficial advisor to Governor Heil, and is a prominent Milwaukee Republican. He is known to have drafted several measures at the request of Heil.

Restores Old System

The Wiperman bill would strengthen party power and discipline immeasurably, and by a system of nominating conventions in counties, legislative districts, congressional districts, and a state conference, would restore the old indirect system of nomination of party candidates for all offices.

The base of the plan would be the precinct election in April, at which each voter would register his party preference, and elect party committeemen, and "county delegates." The county delegates would nominate county delegates at a conference, and would send representatives to a state conference in July which would nominate the party's candidates for state office. The aggregate county delegates in a congressional, senatorial, or assembly district, would hold separate nominating meetings for those offices.

Independent candidates would be possible still, but a candidate would have to swear to his membership in the party whose column he wishes to enter, or obtain an affidavit of approval from the state party chairman. The regular primary would be held in September. The result would be to make political party members of the thousands of independent voters in Wisconsin who habitually swing from party to party, as is shown by recent Wisconsin elections, and the rare occurrence of complete party domination of the state government. It would also practically preclude members of any party from influencing the nomination of candidates in any other party. It would have made impossible last fall's Democratic-Republican Coalition, and would render impossible the presently discussed Progressive-Democratic combination for next year.

Emphasis on Party Control

It would have the effect of clearing, in most instances, the voter for a party ticket in April of the election year, before the ticket which he will vote has been made public. It would eliminate much of the popular campaigning under the present system, by replacing party campaigning for delegates to the nominating conventions. It would make party control more important, and party offices more sought after.

Supporters of the new primary proposal do not mention what is possibly its most important immediate effect—the elimination of a possibility of party coalitions—and stress the fact that it will emphasize party power and responsibility. Wisconsin and the nation was founded upon, and flourished under party government, they maintain. The present direct primary law makes party committees weak and meaningless, they also argue, because they have little to do.

The present primary system, although it was designed to end political bossism, has not done so. Boss rule of parties is still possible, and still existent, according to Wiperman, who has argued his bill at length before the legislature. Candidates now have to spend more money to get on the ballot under the direct primary, and there is no assurance that they will be better candidates than those nominated in a convention. And frequently they are poorer men.

System Called Farce

The system of nominating petitions, which puts a man's name on the primary ballot under the present law, is a farce, it has been maintained, and should be ended because it demoralizes election procedure. Candidates have been found who got fewer votes in the primary election than the names they filed on their nominating papers, simply because signing nomination papers has become a meaningless gesture.

Opponents, however, storn that the Wiperman measure will return all the evils of the old caucus and convention nominating system, when the party boss chose his own men by hook or crook, or the candidate with the most whisky and cigars copped the prize, as one man told a legislative hearing committee.

The primary election law as it is now written has been in effect for 32 years. It is the direct result of autocratic exercise of power by the men who dominated the state Republican party at the beginning of the present century. By defeating the elder LaFollette in his campaign for the gubernatorial nomination in 1896, the party managers furnished an issue which later brought LaFollette the nomination despite their efforts, and his election by the people on a promise for election reforms.

Held Referendum

Of his defeat in the 1896 convention, LaFollette said: "The bosses were not the party. The fault lay with the system that permitted corrupt agents to betray their principles, that the evil work I had forced me to do some hard thinking, and that I was going home to find some better way, that we would never compromise, never abandon the fight until we had made government truly representative of the people."

Direct nominations of candidates was introduced in the legislature in 1897, and was roundly defeated in two successive sessions. In 1900 LaFollette was elected governor for the first time. In his second term, after a bitter struggle, his followers obtained adoption of the primary principle with a compromise—a referendum by the people. It carried in the election of 1904 by a majority of over 50,000. The first primary election under the new law was held in 1906.

The idea spread rapidly during the two decades following its enactment, and before 1917 it was in use in all except 6 of the 48 states.

Waupaca Lions Club Meets at Cleghorn

Waupaca — The Waupaca Lions club held their regular meeting at Camp Cleghorn Monday evening with a dinner at 6:30 in the camp dining room. The softball game that was scheduled to precede the dinner had to be dispensed with because of rain. In lieu of a pre-arranged program Charles Branan reported on the activities of the Menasha convention which was held at Menasha in June.

For the first meeting of 1939 the recently elected officers were in charge, headed by Roy D. Luther as president, Stanley Wetherbee, first vice president, Charles Booth, second vice president, and John Burnham, third vice president; George Klake, secretary, Don Farmer, treasurer and J. Kyle Anderson, lion tamer.

Bonokowski Families Gather at Reunion

Waupaca—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Halverson was the scene Sunday of a family reunion of the Bonokowski families, more than fifty being present for a dinner which was served at noon and as many for the evening meal. The guests came from Manawa, Crystal Lake, Ogdensburg, Split Rock and Waupaca. Six brothers and a sister of the original family of 10, were present with their families. They were R. E. and William Bonokowski, Waupaca; Fred and Elmer Bonokowski, Ogdensburg; Herman and Louis Bonokowski, and Mrs. Joe Brennenstuhl, Manawa.

Several cousins, the Alvin Alft family of Shawano were enroute to the reunion when a collision in which they were involved forced them to abandon their plans.

South American Journeys by Books, Topics Will Feature New Town, Gown Club Season

SOUTH AMERICAN JOURNEYS through the medium of book reviews and topics will occupy the attention of the Town and Gown club during the 1939-40 season which opens in September. The year's program was prepared by Mrs. F. W. Schneider, Mrs. Arthur Weston and Mrs. William McConaha.

The club will open its season with a luncheon meeting Sept. 20, at which Mrs. Schneider, Sara Baker, Harry Lewis, Walter E. Rogers and Rexford Mitchell will be hostesses. Mrs. Ralph Landis will present the program, reviewing "South by Thunderbird."

At the next meeting, on Oct. 4, Mrs. Clin Mead will have as her topic "Archaeology and History Reveal the Indian Culture." Miss Edna Wiegand will continue with the story of early South America at the Oct. 18 meeting, when she will speak on "Spain and Portugal Conquer and Colonize."

Mrs. Lawrence Towle will be hostess to the club Nov. 1, at which time Mrs. Thomas Kepler will have as her subject "Heroes March and Win Independence."

The next two meetings will be devoted to a study of Brazil. On Nov. 15, when the club meets at the home of Mrs. G. C. Cast, Mrs. Frederick Treize will discuss "How Brazil Grew and Lived and Grows." Four weeks later, on Dec. 13, Mrs. David Gallagher will present the program, discussing "What Lies Behind Brazil's Great Wealth." The meeting will be held at Mrs. Kepler's home and will be the only one in December.

Guests From Milwaukee are Feted at Party

MISS DOROTHY KENNEY, 1016 W. Commercial street, was hostess at a party for the Hi-Swing club last evening in honor of her two house guests, the Misses Audrey and Eileen Borhofen, Milwaukee. The girls played dice and prizes were awarded to Miss Audrey Borhofen and Miss Ruth Rossmiller. Others present were the Misses Esther Schwarz, Patty Schultz, Joan Foxgrover and Bernadine Vander Heyden.

About 50 young people attended the supper and dancing party held at North Shore Golf club Wednesday evening as part of the club's junior program. The next junior event scheduled is a winter roast and outdoor dance Aug. 16.

Seven tables were in play at the card party given Wednesday afternoon at St. Therese parish hall by the Christian Mothers society of St. Therese church. Prizes at schafkopf were won by J. Kohl, first, and Mrs. Steve Utschig, second, and at bridge, by Mrs. Henry Haen, first, and Mrs. Fred Stip, second. Mrs. Haen also won the special prize, Mrs. Otto Gandt and Mrs. Harold Timmers were in charge. Another party will be given next Wednesday.

A group of girls surprised Miss Geraldine Werner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Werner, 1313 W. Eighth street, last evening in celebration of her fifteenth anniversary. ## Big Attendance at Community Gathering at Camp Cleghorn Waupaca — L. H. Christensen, secretary of the Camp Cleghorn assembly, reported an unusually large attendance at the community gathering Monday night. Six communities were represented in a program of songs, readings, musical numbers and three short plays from different communities. Saxville, Porterville, Miladore and Junction City, Waupaca and Buena Vista, each presented numbers on the program. Saxville home talent put on "The Calamity Howler"; Porterville, "Fun in the Photograph Gallery" and three men dressed as women from Porterville impersonated "Three Old Maids from Lynn." The men who took the parts were the Rev. Elmer Shepherd, Norman Sawyer and Don Sawyer.

On Tuesday the stockholders and directors held their annual meeting. On Wednesday evening Dr. C. F. Hayes, Madison, presented temperance lecture on "The Next Step in Control." Thursday was W. C. T. U. day, under the direction of Mrs. Emma Mielke of Ripon.

On Friday J. F. Williams, Madison, will show several reels of motion pictures. Saturday is always rest day and Sunday the Rev. Arthur Johnson of the Stevens Point Methodist church will preach. He is bringing his home congregation with him. The group will picnic during the day on the grounds.

In addition to the Stevens Point group there will be 125 employees of the Piggly Wiggly stores of Wisconsin at Cleghorn Sunday, as well as 30 boys and girls from Neenah for the day.

Progress Is Made in War on Tuberculosis

Waupaca — According to Miss Estelle B. Jung, Waupaca county nurse, this county is "waging a merciless war on the tuberculosis bacillus, because all of us have learned that this bug must be caught when it first begins to raise a rumpus, and this is, many times, before any real symptoms are evident."

But for a very few isolated instances, all members of known or suspected tuberculous families, whether at the present or in the past, have been tested with Kech's old tuberculin. Those showing positive reactions to the tuberculin skin test have had chest X-rays to help determine whether there is any tubercular activity at present. Those few found to be in need of attention are under medical supervision.

This summer, all tuberculous cases on record are being visited at their homes. Office interviews will be granted upon request to anyone having any health questions of his own with which the county public health office may be in a position to help.

Youth Is Bound Over On Car Theft Charge

Rollo A. Dishna, 19, route 1, Hortonville, waived preliminary hearing on a charge of taking a car without the owner's consent when he appeared in municipal court this morning before Judge Thomas H. Ryan. Dishna was bound over for trial within 30 days.

He is charged with taking a car owned by his employer, Alfred Handschke, route 1, Hortonville, Monday. The car, in a damaged condition, was recovered at Manawa.

NEW HARD-WATER SUDS HELPS KEEP COLOR IN STOCKINGS!

Now see stockings keep their delicate sheerness and fresh color, amazingly longer! See woollens and underwear regain bright-like freshness and color! Colored prints sing with radiant sparkle! Results are startling because science has found a way to make a wonderful new suds, called Vel. Contains no alkali to fade colors. Neither can Vel form ruinous soap-scum, even in hardest water. You can feel this slippery, slimy scum in soap suds. But these amazing new Vel suds feel soft and pure. That's because Vel is not a soap. It's a special new hard-water suds perfected by Colgate. It makes as much as 5 times more suds than expensive soap flakes in hardest water. And it makes hardest water act soft as rainwater. You can see why Vel is better than soap flakes for fine fabrics, because Vel does not form a ring of soap-scum around the bowl. That proves Vel can't leave ruinous soap-scum in your stockings, underwear and woollens, to dull the sheerness and cause a "cottony" look.

The most thrilling proof is the radiant freshness, the soft newness, and lovelier color of ANYTHING you wash in Vel. So easy on hands, too, because Vel suds contain no acid, no alkali to irritate the skin. Buy Vel today at grocers. Made and guaranteed by Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company.

Foundry to Meet Butte des Morts In Wolf Circuit

Neenah Nine's Opponent Heavy Favorite to Win Sunday

Neenah — The Neenah Foundry will oppose Butte des Morts in a Wolf River valley league game at 2:15 Sunday afternoon at Butte des Morts.

The Foundry surprised the other teams, especially Winneconne, in the league last Sunday, when it walloped the village nine, 8 to 5. The upset toppled Winneconne out of a share of the circuit lead.

Butte des Morts, which was elbowed out of the other share of first place last Sunday when they lost to Waukau, present league leaders, 10 to 9, is sharing second place with Omro in the loop standings. Waukau has won seven games and lost three, while Butte des Morts has seven wins against four defeats. Winneconne dropped down to third place with six wins against four defeats, while Neenah is fourth with four victories and six losses. Allen-ville holds undisputed possession of the cellar position, having lost 10 straight games.

Omro At Waukau
In the other league games Sunday, Omro will play at Waukau and Winneconne will travel to Allen-ville. Omro defeated Allen-ville, 10 to 0, last Sunday.

The Foundry has played Butte des Morts twice this season, losing both contests, 13 to 5 and 13 to 9. Unless the Neenah outfit can pull another upset Sunday, Butte des Morts will be a heavy favorite to win.

Gullickson, who pitched superlative ball against Winneconne last Sunday, probably will be assigned to mound duty against Butte des Morts. The rest of the lineup will include Hackstock, C. R. Schroeder, Johnson, B. Metz, B. H. Schroeder, J. Koepke, H. Haufe, Jr. and Pierce.

County Dairymen To Hold Outings

Three Winnebago Farmer Groups Plan Picnics In July, August

Neenah — Winnebago county dairymen have scheduled three picnics during July and August in the county, according to R. C. Hefferman, county agricultural agent.

The Guernsey Breeders will hold their annual outing Sunday, July 23, at the Frank Schuster and Jess Mosh farms, two miles west of Oshkosh. Dr. E. E. Helzer, Madison, will give an analysis of Mr. Mosh's herd during the picnic.

The Holstein Breeders will picnic at the grounds of the Winnebago state hospital Sunday, July 30. Glen Householder and Robert Geiger, members of the National Holstein Freisian association, will attend. A recreational program is being planned.

The five dairy herd improvement associations will have a joint picnic Sunday, Aug. 20, at the Omro village park. The purpose of this outing is to enable dairymen to get acquainted with other members of the association and other groups in the county. An informal program is being arranged.

Two Youngsters Admit Breaking Window Panes

Neenah — Two youngsters, one 8 years old and the other 8 years old, admitted to police that they broke windows at the Neenah high school Tuesday night when they were questioned at the Neenah police station Wednesday afternoon.

The fathers of the boys have promised to pay for the damage. Police Chief Alex Slomski reported this morning. The youngsters threw pop bottles through nine small panes of glass in the windows of the boys locker room in the school gymnasium.

Ted Beach Leads Menasha Eagles With .600 Mark

Team Will Face Appleton Sunday in Final Win- nebago League Game

Menasha — Ted Beach, handy-man of the Menasha Eagles baseball team, is sporting a .600 batting average after 12 games in the Winnebago league. Beach, who has pitched, played short, caught, and taken a try at first base this season, has collected 24 hits in 40 attempts to lead his nearest competitor for batting honors by nearly 200 points. He also has scored the most runs with 26.

Bernard Hoks and Stinski went on hitting sprees in the last game and also hiked their averages. Hoks is hitting .416 with 18 blows in 43 attempts while Stinski has 14 hits in 35 attempts for a .400 average. The Eagles are scheduled to complete their Winnebago season next Sunday at Appleton. The Eagles have 11 wins and one defeat in 12 games while the Appleton Athletics are undefeated in 13 league games.

While the Eagles and the Athletics are scheduled for one regular game Sunday, the two teams also have one postponed game to play. Appleton took the first meeting between the two teams with a 17 to 4 decision under the lights. The Eagles also have a question over one game with Omro which Omro claims as a forfeit.

Average 13 Per Game
The Eagles have averaged better than 13 runs a game and have held their opponents to less than four runs per game. The team has collected 146 hits in 444 attempts for a .306 average. Opponents have collected 88 hits in 365 attempts for a .235 average.

Merchants Face Manitowoc Team

Neenah and Fischls on Par for Battle Here Sunday Afternoon

Neenah — The Neenah Merchants will oppose the hapless Manitowoc nine in the Fox River Valley league at 2:15 Sunday afternoon at Washington park diamond.

Although Neenah is only about a half game out of the cellar position in the league standings, having won only one game and lost three, the Fischls hold undisputed possession of last place, having lost four straight games.

Manitowoc, however, dealt Neenah a 4 to 2 trouncing in their first conflict this season, but despite this fact, the two nines will be about on a par as far as odds are concerned.

In their last games, Manitowoc was soundly trounced by the second place Kaukauna nine, 14 to 6, while Neenah sustained a 12 to 7 trouncing from the Menasha Falcons.

Schultz or Menning will fling for Neenah in the game Sunday, and the rest of the line-up probably will include Cheslock, If, K. Handler, 2b, Gartzke, 3b, Fahrreng, 1b, Gullickson, cf, Cash, c, Gammey ss, Haufe rf, Christofferson also may pitch or play in the right garden.

Manitowoc's line-up will include Galbrith, 3b, J. Simon, 2b, Schlei, 1b, Wachal, cf, Pitz, 1b, J. Gray, c, Kowlaski rf, Q. Simon ss, S. Gray p.

Delivery Squad Beats Shell Oils

Jensen Pitches Two-Hit Game in Young Men's Softball League

Neenah — Gord's Delivery blanked Shell Oils, 5 to 0, in the Young Men's Softball league last evening at the high school diamond, when Jensen, flinging for the Gord's, restricted the Shells to two hits.

In the other league games, A and P Store walloped Draheims, 10 to 4, at the Green, while the All Star-Lakeview game was postponed.

Muench Recreation and Krueger Hardware will play this evening in a City League game.

The All Stars are leading the Young Men's league with 10 straight victories, while Gord's are in second place with nine wins against two defeats with Shells in third with five wins and as many losses. A and P Store holds down fourth place with four wins and seven losses, and Lakeview is in fifth position with two victories against seven defeats.

Draheims hold the cellar spot with only one victory against nine losses.

Three teams, Lakeviews, Legion and Kruegers, are tied for the lead in the City circuit, each outfit having won nine games and lost three. Muench Recreation is second with eight wins and four losses, and Faust Motors are third with four victories against eight defeats. Bergstrom Papers are in fourth place with two wins and 10 losses, and City Slickers are in the cellar, having won only one game against 11 losses.

Shape Plans for Coordination of Charitable Work

Twin City Groups Favor Establishment of Central Bureau

Neenah — Preliminary plans for the organization of a clearing house in Neenah and Menasha for charity work got underway at a meeting of over 60 representatives of charitable organizations in the Twin Cities last evening at the Valley Inn.

Each charitable organization in Neenah and Menasha will appoint two of its members as representatives on a board to promote plans for the establishment of the proposed bureau. The board will meet later this summer or early in the fall.

Two talks were given, one by Clifford B. Engeswich, executive secretary of the Sheboygan Community Chest, and the other by Mrs. Leonora R. Rosing, secretary of the Milwaukee county Community Fund and Council of Social Agencies.

The purpose of the meeting was to consider proper methods of establishing a bureau to prevent duplication and better distribution of assistance for the needy.

It was pointed out that there is enough charitable work being done in the two communities, but it is a haphazard proposition, resulting in duplication as well as neglect in some instances.

The necessity for a bureau containing confidential records of the families and cases which are being taken care of by the various organizations was stressed, and it was agreed that the first step in the organization of this proposed central bureau as well as confidential bureau was the establishment of a board.

Engeswich outlined the work being done in Sheboygan's Community Chest program as well as its central bureau, while Mrs. Rosing described the functions of the central bureau in Milwaukee.

The need for an experienced case worker who could make investigations of cases for the different organizations was stressed. The feasibility of a Community Chest program in Neenah and Menasha also was discussed.

Make Plans for State Jace Picnic, Tourney

Neenah — Final plans for the annual state Junior Chamber of Commerce picnic and golf tournament, which will be held at Lakeview park, Neenah, and Ridgeway Golf club Sunday, Aug. 6, were made at a meeting of the committee last night. A final meeting of the committee will be held Wednesday night, Aug. 2.

Over 1,000 Persons Hear Band Concert At Athletic Field

Neenah—More than 1,000 persons attended the band concert presented by the Neenah High school junior and senior bands, under the direction of Lester Mals, and the American Legion novelty Chinese band last night at the high school athletic field.

The final summer demonstration concert, which will be Wednesday evening at the athletic field, will be dedicated to Neenah's four service clubs, Rotary, Lions, and Kiwanis clubs and the Neenah Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Mals reported this morning that the annual picnic for band members and their parents, which was scheduled for Friday at Wauwasha Beach, Wautoma, has been canceled because of the lack of transportation.

The Legion Chinese band performed during the intermission between the junior and senior bands' concerts, the latter presentations being dedicated to Neenah patriotic groups. Patriotic music was featured during the concert.

'High Moisture' Cheese Resolution Brings Protests

State Cheesemakers Ask Assembly to Over-Rule Senate's Action

Madison—(P)—Wisconsin cheesemakers protested yesterday a senate-adopted resolution memorializing congress to permit out-of-state shipment of "high moisture" American and cheddar cheese.

Headed by Earl B. Whiting, president of their state association, the cheesemakers invaded Madison in a body to urge the assembly committee on agriculture to recommend defeat of the resolution to "protect" the high quality of Wisconsin cheese.

They argued that high moisture types of cheese soured easily. A few shipments of spoiled cheese, they said, would do irreparable harm to the state's reputation as a cheese making center.

"We thought this resolution was so ridiculous that it would not be necessary for us to appear against it," Whiting said. "Now that the senate has approved it, we want to urge strongly that this committee stop it."

Liquor, beer and gasoline tax collections decreased approximately $964,000 during 1937 because of economic conditions, two witnesses told the assembly excise and fees committee yesterday.

The committee ordered the hearing to determine whether an investigation of the revenue decline should be launched as requested in a resolution introduced by Assemblyman Theodore Swanson (P) of Ellsworth.

Oscar T. Toebeas, representing the Wisconsin State Brewers association, said the brewers had no objection to an inquiry. He said that beer consumption in the state dropped 68 per cent during 1937 when 43 of the 48 states also showed declines.

Arthur A. Pugh, beverage tax division accountant, told the assemblymen state auditors take extensive inventories and check their figures against federal figures, and added that there "is no question the state got all it had coming to it as far as beer revenue was concerned."

The gasoline tax decline of $130,000 amounted to only six-tenths of one per cent of the net yield, Pugh said, asking whether any other business could show "such a favorable figure."

attended were: Mrs. Amelia Reinke, Elmer and Theodore Reinke, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Due and son Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Thoma and Lucille, John Brown, Sugar Bush, Mrs. Frederick Reinke, Jr. and Billie, Clintonville; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Thoma and son Wayne of Chicago.

Otto Yaeger of New London and Simon Brisco of this village left Wednesday for Quinnesec, Mich., where they are employed.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Monty and family, former Deer Creek residents, have moved to the village and are occupying rooms in the building known as the Miller hotel.

The WORLD of STAMPS

That most famed of Flemish painters, Peter Paul Rubens, is being honored on Belgium's latest set. Eight semi-postals have been issued to raise money for restoring the House of Rubens at Antwerp.

The series is dedicated "A la gloire de Pierre Paul Rubens, Prince des peintres flamands" (To the glory of Peter Paul Rubens, Prince of the Flemish painters).

the glory of Peter Paul Rubens, Prince of the Flemish painters.

Designs and values are as follows: Arcade of the House of Rubens, 10 centimes plus 5c, brown, a Rubens' painting "Rubens' Sons" (Albert and Nicolas), 40c plus 5c, reddish purple.

A close-up photograph of the arcade, 75c plus 5c, gray-black; another painting "Helen Pourment and Her Children," 1 franc plus 25c, red (Helen, Rubens' second wife, was 16 when he married her at 53); Full-portrait of Rubens and his first wife, Isabelle Brant, 1.50fr plus 25c, brown (Isabelle died four years before his second marriage); A portrait of Rubens after a celebrated engraving by Pontius, 1.75fr plus 25c, deep blue, his painting, "The Velvet Hat," 2.50fr plus 25c, purple; and his famous work "Descent From the Cross," 5 fr plus 5fr, gray-green.

Zog's Picture Remains When the Italian invasion drove King Zog from his throne this spring, most Albanians considered it prudent to remove his photograph from public view in the shops and homes and to substitute likenesses of King Vittorio Emanuele and Benito Mussolini.

But Zog's picture still appears on Albanian postage stamps. Over it, in Albanian, is printed "Constituent Assembly—April 12, 1939," the date the Albanian crown was offered to the Italian King.

Two separate items from France indicate that the government is going to some trouble to promote among collectors the flood of issues.

it is printing this year, and increase public interest in philately.

First, the French mint has issued a new medal dedicated to philatelists. It comes in silver and bronze, has perforated edges like a stamp. The illustration shows a charming lady inspecting her album with a magnifying glass. On the upper edge is etched a cancellation mark. Second, the ministry of posts, telegraphs and telephones, under its shrewd new head, the businessman-politician Georges Mandel, has slashed the price of complete colonial sets.

In 1937 such a complete set for any French colony cost above $17. But since Mandel has taken over the ministry, the price for a set has been dropped to less than $150, by the simple method of taking the highest value stamps off the sets.

These tactics brought in business formerly only about 3,000 sets were sold per year. But if sales continue at the present rate, more than 18,000 "Mandel sets" will be sold this year.

U. S. Will Borrow 2 Millions Monday

Money Needed to Take Up Expiring Crop Loans Held by Banks

Washington—(P)—Secretary Morgenthau announced today the Commodity Credit Corporation would borrow $200,000,000 from the public Monday to take up expiring crop loans now held by banks.

Details of the note issue will be given Monday. The only other commodity credit financing, on May 2, 1938, was the borrowing of $206,000,000 on three-quarters of one per cent 11 year notes.

Morgenthau explained most loans on corn, cotton and wheat, for instance, under the government program, are made by banks for a term of one year. At the end of that time the banks have the option of renewing the loans or selling them to the government in order to prevent a call upon farmers for payment.

The secretary said an additional $119,000,000 of cash would be made available to the corporation as soon as congress passed a pending bill appropriating that amount to reimburse the corporation for losses on loans during the last year.

Mrs. Mann Cards 83 to Gain Semis Of Women's Meet

Defeats Marion Callahan In Defense of Her State Title

BELOIT—(P)—Mrs. Russell Mann of Milwaukee, shooting the same brand of golf that earned her co-medalist honors, led survivors of a closely battled round-of-eight into today's semifinals of the Wisconsin Women's golf tournament.

Mrs. Mann, defending her title, was paired with diminutive Eloise Briesse of Kenosha in one bracket, while the other brought together Marie Nickles of Madison, the 153rd title, and Marie Riemer of Milwaukee, producer of yesterday's upset victory over co-medalist Goldie Bateson of Milwaukee, the 1938-39 champion.

Mrs. Mann toured the Beloit Country club course in 83, one stroke over her medal figure, for a one-up verdict over Marion Callahan of Madison, a former champion.

Miss Riemer, veteran of many state meets, also turned in an 83, seven over par, for a similar margin in her conquest of Miss Bateson.

Miss Briesse, in eliminating Mrs. John Clauser of Milwaukee 3 and 2, was six over par for 16 holes, while Miss Nickles was seven above par for 13 holes as she beat Mary Brady of Milwaukee, 6 and 5.

Longest Match The championship consolation division produced the tourney's longest match when Mary Gardner of Beloit was extended to 20 holes in defeating Mrs. Paul Parker of Milwaukee. Both had 89's for the regulation 18.

The junior division medalist, Virginia Smith of Milwaukee, scored a 5 and 4 victory over Frances Baker of Madison in the quarter-finals.

In other junior matches Jane Nichol, Milwaukee, beat Lenore Bode, Waukegan, 4 and 3; Jane Blumenshine, Ripon, defeated Betty Jean Smith, Madison, 4 and 2; and Dorothy Loos, Milwaukee, won over Suzanne Snively, Janesville, 6 and 4.

Complete quarter-final results and semi-final pairings: Championship—Mrs. Russell Mann, Milwaukee, defeated Marion Callahan, Madison, 1 up; Eloise Briesse, Kenosha, defeated Mrs. John Clauser, Milwaukee, 3 and 2; Marie Riemer, Milwaukee, defeated Goldie Bateson, Milwaukee, 1 up; Marie Nickles, Madison, defeated Mary Brady, Milwaukee, 6-5.

Pairings—Mrs. Mann versus Miss Briesse; Miss Riemer versus Miss Nickles.

Consolation matches—Mary Gardner, Beloit, defeated Mrs. Paul Parker, Milwaukee, 20 holes; Ann White, Kenosha, defeated Mrs. Fred Uhlein, Milwaukee, 9-8; Mrs. Ralph Miller, Madison, won from Mrs. Karl Luetke, Green Lake, default; Alice Ann Anderson, Kenosha, defeated Mary Etta Parker, Milwaukee, 4-2.

Enter Semis of B.D.M. Tourney McGowan Wins From Steinkne in Battle; D. Bendt Upsets Brandt

Dewey Bendt will meet Ken Dickinson and Emmett Verbrick will meet Ralph McGowan in the semi-final round of the Butte des Morts club championship tournament, it was announced today. The semi matches must be played by Monday.

Bendt recently defeated August Brandt in 19 holes for one of the feature battles.

Another was Ralph McGowan's win over F. C. Steinkne in 19 holes. Steinkne, who competes in the senior event of tournaments, and who is 54 years old, despite the shorts in which he plays, was "hot" in his match with McGowan and rattled up a 36 on the first nine. McGowan won only one hole in the first nine and had to get a birdie to do so. Steinkne was 3-up at the end of the nine holes. McGowan went to work on the eleventh, whittled down the lead and finally topped on the extra hole.

Other flight pairings are: George Baldwin versus Gene Pierce; Dr. Don Curtin versus A. P. Rock.

Leo Murphy versus Ted Drolshagen; Dr. J. M. Donovan versus Barney Hoffman.

DEFENDING TITLE

Mrs. Russell Mann, Milwaukee, is defending her title in the state women's golf tournament at Beloit this week. She eliminated Marion Callahan, Madison, a former champion, one up, in a quarter-final match yesterday and was matched with diminutive Eloise Briesse of Kenosha in a semi-final contest today. Mrs. Mann copped the western women's title in 1933 at Oak Park, Ill.

WITH Schwandt hammering a homer and a triple, Y. M. C. A. kept rolling along in Fraternal league circles and scored an easy 6 to 1 victory over Knights of Columbus at Wilson school diamond last evening for its tenth straight win of the league season.

Schwandt tripled and tallied on Welson's sacrifice for the first marker in the initial inning. The "Y" boys counted four times in the second with Rammer leading off with a single, going to second on Fuerst's life, advancing on a wild pitch and counting on Welson's long fly to right. Griesch singled with Fuerst stopping at third. LaMar popped out but Schwandt found one to his liking and laid out a circuit blow. The "Y" added one more in the seventh.

Knights of Columbus averted a shutout when Bleier stole second, continued to third on a wild peg and counted on Hildebrandt's sacrifice.

Griesch mounded for the winners and allowed but one hit while Timmers was touched for seven.

Barrage of Bunts in Ninth Gives Boston Bees 3 to 2 Victory Over Chicago Cubs

New York Giants Suffer 5th Straight Defeat; Lose to Bucs

BOSTON—(P)—A timely ninth inning bunt by Substitute Shortstop Rabbit Warstler brought home a badly needed run yesterday and gave the Boston Bees a 3 to 2 victory over the Chicago Cubs and Milt Shoffner his third straight triumph.

The winning run resulted from a single and a barrage of bunts. Tony Cuccinello lashed a hit to left field. Then Otto Huber beat out a bunt. Al Lopez bunted the pair down the bases and Warstler, playing shortstop for the injured Eddie Miller, laid down his bunt to score Cuccinello. The Rabbit also got two other hits during the day.

The first of the three game series between the Bees and Cubs was an even-Stephen affair until the fifth, when Boston's Debs Garmes slammed a single between Billy Herman's legs to score Warstler and Shoffner. Warstler had reached first by a single and Shoffner got on base when Jimmy Gleeson dropped his fly in the sun and wind.

The Cubs landed on Shoffner in the ninth for their two tallies. Manager Gabby Hartnett was walked to open the inning and he brought in Clay Bryant to do the running. Glen Russell's double scored Bryant. Then Dick Bartell sacrificed Russell to third, Hank Leibler, batting for Pitcher Bill Lee, was walked, and Stanley Hack tied the count by bringing in Russell with a hit to right field, which Garmes lost—as had Gleeson—in the sun and wind.

GIANTS LOSE NO. 5 New York—The New York Giants yesterday lost their fifth straight game, succumbing before the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10 to 3, and at the same time lost another player.

Pitcher Walter Brown was added to the injured list today when a drive from Arky Vaughan's bat caught him on the wrist, this being the latest of a series of mishaps which has taken Lou Chiozza, Harry Daunting and Joe Moore to the sidelines for treatment. Additionally, Billy Jurgis is serving out a suspension.

Finally the Giants called on second string first baseman Johnny McCarthy to go to the pitching mound today as Brown's successor in the fifth inning. During his tenure he gave up eight hits and four runs.

Kampouris clouded for the circuit.

REDS WIN IN TENTH Brooklyn—(P)—The league-leading Cincinnati Reds stretched their latest winning streak to three games last night when they went 10 innings to defeat the Brooklyn Dodgers in a night game, 4-2.

Wally Berger pinchhitting for Stan Bordagaray doubled in the ninth to tie the score for the Reds. Then in the overtime period Willard Hershberger singled with the bases full to sew up the contest.

John Whitlow Wyatt, the Dodgers' starting pitcher, was knocked out of the box in the tenth after giving up a base on balls and an infield single. Russell Red Evans finished for the Dodgers.

WEEK'S GAMES

Wire Works 9 Chairs 1.
Thursday—Marathon versus Coated. (Postponed to Friday, July 28).

WIRE WORKS broke through with six runs in the third inning to defeat Chair Factory, 9 to 1, in an American Industrial league game at Roosevelt school diamond last evening. The Chairs won their previous two games and showed signs of being a team to be reckoned with but last night re-lapsed into their customary Shakespearean mood and staged a "Comedy of Errors" in nine acts. Somebody thought it looked more like Hamlet.

Fauk hurled for Wires and allowed seven hits while fanning seven and walking one. Gil Schreck tossed for the Chairs and gave up eight hits while whiffing six and issuing one walk.

Chairs picked up their only run in the first inning when Sonny Filz lead off with a single, stole second and took third on a sacrifice. Schreck beat out an infield hit and Filz scored. Wires knotted the count in their half of the first when Zimmerman was safe on King's error, went to third when Ken Slattery flied out and tallied when Al Krantzusch was safe on an error.

The Wires tallied six runs on four hits, four errors and a walk in the third frame. Al Krantzusch homered.

Johnston Gets Bout for Pastor With Louis After 2-Year Fight

BY GAYLE TALBOT NEW YORK—(P)—It is a pleasure to welcome James Joy Johnston, known these many years as the "Boy Bandit," back into the main ring of the pugilistic circus.

Jimmy, with his derby and his double-edged tongue, has been missed for the last couple of years, since Mike Jacobs elbowed him into the background and took over the fight game.

Some thought Jimmy was gone for good when he lost his big job with Madison Square Garden. All he had left was his derby, slightly worn; Bob Pastor, a heavyweight nobody wanted to see if it could possibly be avoided, and one of the town's largest families to feed.

For two years his exile has been punctuated only by an occasional Johnstorian blast, proclaiming sulphurically that Champion Joe Louis was the worst tramp ever to occupy the throne.

2-Year Struggle For two years he has been fighting against odds to get Pastor another shot at Louis.

Patty Berg Victim Of Balky Appendix

Minneapolis—(P)—Patty Berg, of Minneapolis, women's national golf champion, underwent an operation for appendicitis at Northwestern hospital early today and afterward was reported to be "resting comfortably."

The operation, it was indicated, will make it impossible for her to compete in the women's western closed tournament at Birmingham, Mich., Aug. 7-12 and may prevent her from defending her national title at Noroton, Conn., two weeks later.

It now appears, her physician said, that cramps which seized her during the finals of the recent women's trans-Mississippi tournament were caused by her appendix. Despite the attack, on the sixteenth green, the 21-year-old girl went on to defeat Beatrice Barrett, of Minneapolis, for the title.

ENTERS MIDGET RACE

Milwaukee—(P)—Tony Willman, the Milwaukee star, is scheduled to compete in the midget automobile races at the state fair park tomorrow night, feature of which will be a 50-lap sweepstakes. Others expected to enter are Ray Richards, Wallie Zale, Mike O'Halloran, Ted Duncan, Lyle Dickey, and Bob Muhlik. The field also will include several other drivers.

TWO RIVERS invades Clintonville tonight with high hopes of breaking the Truckers' edge. Lefty Fortin hasn't worked on the mound for over a week and he will pitch for the Cool City. It looks like Feits for the Clinis.

Lucy Alberts turned in another one of his pitching masterpieces last Sunday at Two Rivers and the home club whitewashed the Manitowoc invaders by a 3-0 score. Alberts allowed but three hits, one a two bagger by Borths.

Seymour got off on the right foot in the second half by defeating Clintonville, 6-3. Dick Wesgerber had the Truckers eating out of his hand until the ninth when he wobbled a bit and the visitors chased three runs across.

Ruben Schaninger hurled Green Bay to a 10-2 victory over New London. The Sox slabster was wild as a March hare but he had his strike-out ball coming through in the pinches and he whiffed 15 of the heavy hitting Bulldogs.

Rex Fontana, Green Bay fielder, had a perfect night with the stick against New London, getting three hits, a walk and a sacrifice in five trips to the plate. This spurge boosted Fontana's batting average from .321 to .374.

Rex Krull, a smooth working southpaw, is a new addition to the Clintonville Truckers. The portside has looked good in recent starts and Manager Len Goering figures Rex should be a big help in the last lap pennant chase.

The Seymour fans are confident that Jack Lamers will find his batting eye on the home stretch. The hustling backstop got a timely blow in the Clintonville game and he cuffed a couple of over which just missed being bingles.

Bowers, Seymour gardener, is enjoying a great year with the stick as he is slapping the apple at a near .400 clip. Bowers is one of the older players in the loop but he is showing the youngsters a lot of tricks with his bat.

Red Burch, recruit outfielder, has developed into one of the finds of the season. The Green Sox youngster roams over a mile of territory and he is a sure-grabbing flyhawk. Burch isn't hitting much but he is up there swinging just the same.

Ziggy Zigmund makes himself quite useful with the Manitowoc Shipbuilders. The veteran serves as Manager Al Borths' first assistant and has a hand in about everything that is going on from his post along the coaching line.

Rollie Meyer is playing the best ball of his career in the gardens for Two Rivers. The fleet-footed outfielder can go a mile after the ball and some of his grabs have smacked of the major league variety.

Pete Westphal, field captain for New London, is getting a lot out of the Bulldogs. The New Londoners carry power galore with their bats and Pete has enjoyed great success juggling his lineup to get the hits in pinches.

Ground rules made it tough for the umpires in the Clintonville-Seymour game and Spent Hooyman, who worked behind the log, had a couple of decisions to call which

HOLLYWOOD—it begins to look as though Hollywood, if it wants to continue the current cycle of biographical pictures, will have to confine itself to the life stories of men and women who are not only dead, but who left no relatives behind. "Sue-the-studio" is becoming an international pastime—a very expensive one for Hollywood.

I can't quite understand the extreme sensitivity which seems, all of a sudden, to have overcome even the remotest descendants of every historic figure brought to the screen. For instance, the gentlemen who put a nickel in the Twentieth Century-Fox bank-roll because their eminent relative, Jesse James, had been depicted as a robber. My reaction was that the studio had glorified Mr. James far beyond his just deserts. Certainly they made him a much more heroic figure than he had been painted in countless books which had passed without protest of course, authors could be sued as profitably as studios. That might have something to do with it.

And this latest damage suit—a $75,000 fine presented to the same studio by Fanny Price. Far be it from me to hazard an opinion on the merits of that case. The only thing that excites my wonder is the fact that Fanny, apparently, was the only person in all Hollywood who had no idea, during the production of "Rose of Washington Square," that the story closely approximated the factual history of her troubled life with Nicky Arnstein. It is not only amazing that she remained unaware of so widely publicized a fact, but most regrettable. For, had she protested, then undoubtedly the studio would have made any necessary changes. The industry can't afford such blows.

Mutterings: What an irresponsible playboy John Barrymore has made of Father Time! Nervous itch: to plant a pot of chewing gum on the soles of Eleanor Powell's dancing shoes and watch the fun. Next that we're all convinced Betty Davis is a great tragedienne, how about giving her a chance to prove her versatility by starring in a good laugh role? Or to mayhem: to ask Mae West why, if she's such an infallible man-catcher, she does so little catching. Isn't it hard to restrain a breathless gasp when those eyebrows of Joe Schildkraut's unexpectedly soar way up to there? Pet Peevers: those stars who donate to a charity, then automatically reach for the phone to call their press agents.

Cuff Notes: Someone "kidnapped" Fred MacMurray's favorite shotgun from his car yesterday and he had to fork over a fifty dollar ransom to get it back. Might just as well award Twentieth Century-Fox the long distance preview championship—they've booked "The Rains Came" for a pre-release showing in Bombay, India.

Time out for Una Merkel—she tumbled down a flight of stairs and garnered a painful crop of bruises. The Basil Rathbones will take their adopted baby daughter to Baltimore, come September, for a christening ceremony with Major and Mrs. Parr of Maryland acting as Godparents.

The Hollywood Parade: Ben Southland, star's double and professional marksman. Currently engaged in trying to see how narrowly he can miss Brian Fox's dancing feet with a six-gun. Mr. Southland began his screen career by shooting buttons off Tom Mix's assistant director on the Marx Brothers' "A Day at the Circus." To give you a rough idea of an assistant director's life, Mr. Roth likes to display one day's wardrobe requiring him to have on the set 10 black and white horses, 10 elephants, a monkey symphony, a giraffe, two rabbits and two pigcons, a week-old lamb—and a radio.

Reds Softballers in Win Over White Sox
Kimberly—The Junior Reds softballers defeated the White Sox for the first round championship in the playground league this week by a score of 22 to 6. F. Schness, pitching for the winners, allowed nine hits, fanned four, and walked four. C. Vander Velden, on the mound for the losers, was nipped for 19 hits. Home runs for the winners were hit by R. Eblen, C. Gaffney, C. Lamers and V. Treichel. For the White Sox, H. Van Eperen and C. Vander Velden hit triples while F. Kokke let loose with a double.

Ike Ruchl Extended At State Net Meet
Milwaukee—(AP)—Milton (Ike) Ruchl, the top seeded men's player, was extended to three sets yesterday before he defeated Bobby Jake, former national boys' champ and a fellow Milwaukeean, 8-6, 6-8, 6-4 in the Badger state open tennis tournament.

Frances and Jessie, the Grossnickles sisters of Columbus, Miss., scored opening round victories in the women's division, Francis eliminating Janette Edwards of Madison, Wis., 6-1, 6-0, while Jessie beat Margaret Stack of Milwaukee, 6-1, 6-3.

Clintonville is probably better fixed than any other club in the league in case of a legal argument as two of the Truckers, Pete Fox, outfielder, and Sy Felts, pitcher, practice law when not cavorting on the baseball field.

So far Two Rivers is concerned, the 1939 baseball season is a howling success as the Polar Bears have dumped Manic four in a row. These clubs have been the bitterest of rivals in a diamond way for many years.

BEWARE OF GADGETS

THERE is no more gullible soul than the average fisherman. He would buy gold bricks at the drop of the hat if he thought they would catch fish or give him better luck in any way, shape, manner, or form. He has told stretchers about the fish he has caught and expected belief. He has listened with some skepticism to other stories but has liked to believe them. He is what we slangily term a "fish" himself.

Preying on this gullibility of the angler there is always a myriad of producers of strange devices to catch fish. There are windmill contraptions, whirling dervishes, multi-colored monstrosities, and a host of indescribable items placed on the market each fishing season that would make any self-respecting Christmas tree turn pale. The old money inventors take advantage of the angler when he is at his weakest.

It has long been my firm belief that the reason fish strike a lure is because they are hungry and think the offering is food to fill their empty interiors. Years of experience hasn't changed this theory one iota. The baits that are most like minnows and other natural fish foods in appearance and action are the ones that get the fullest stringers and the fullest creels. The fantastic nightmares that are produced by the swarm are not designed by rhyme or reason. They are not the soup, salad or any part of a normal fish dinner.

There are and have been baits with electric lights on and in them. Phooie! There have been whirrigs that whirled up a foam like an ocean liner. Bunk! There have been all manner of devices with hidden hooks that come zipping out when the poor fish least suspects attack and there have been baits that explode like torpedoes. Stay away from them unless you want to buy gold bricks.

There have been scented baits which are expected to make the fish come thinking over as if they were headed for a fire. There have been baits that almost talk. The ones that get the fish to striking are the baits that are like some natural form of regular fish food, and don't let any tricks lead you into thinking anything different. You are the big sportsman. Don't be the fish.

When baits bleed like a wounded fish, they are not when their gills are ruined, or when they perform magical gyrations, let them be bought by the other fellow or left to collect dust. Stick to the ones that look real, alive, and tempting. You'll do better and save money.

Green Bay Course to Open 2nd Nine Holes

Green Bay—A crew of workmen today cut fairways, rolled greens and put other finishing touches on the second nine holes to be formally opened at the Shorewood Golf club course here Sunday.

With opening of the new nine, the course, a semi-public club, becomes an 18-hole layout of 6,007 yards with par of 71.

Work on the second nine was started last year. Planting was completed several weeks ago. Good growing weather was experienced, according to Arthur Schluetter, professional of the club, and the greens and fairways have come along in fine shape.

The course, located on the bay shore north of Green Bay, has many natural hazards. Several holes were cut through a heavy woods. Some of the work of clearing it was done by club members last winter.

The club has invited leading Wisconsin golfers to take part in the opening ceremonies.

Mulloy Tangles With Crawford in Net Meet

Brookline, Mass.—(AP)—Jack Crawford, Australian Davis cup team member, squared off today to battle the third seeded Gardner Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., for the last remaining semi-final berth in the 47th Longwood bowl tennis tourney.

Crawford, using his sleek change of pace yesterday, conquered John Doe of Rumson, N. J., powerful former national champion, while Mulloy was idle, waiting for the brackets to catch up.

The other semi-finalists were set, with the winner of the Crawford-Mulloy match destined to tackle the top-seeded Gene Mako, and Adrian Quist, Crawford's Davis cup team mate, due to tangle with Bobby Low, sensational Los Angeles youngster.

There was to be no semi-final action in the men's division until tomorrow, however.

Field Is Cut Down In Colorado Tourney

Colorado Springs, Colo.—(AP)—This was bargain day at the 39th Trans-Mississippi golf tournament with two "sudden death" rounds of shooting calling on the boys for their best tricks.

And there should be quality as well as quantity if the golf is any where near as sparkling as it was in the 32-match first round on Broadmoor's high altitude fairways yesterday.

There was no rest for the 16 golfers triumphing in the second round this morning, because they had to go right out again and scrap one another to cut the field down to tomorrow's 32-hole quarter-finals.

If Joe Wanted to Holler He Should Have Started Sooner

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—If Senator Joe Guffey of Pennsylvania were half the American that he thinks he is he would know the ground rules of the American national game of craps. If he knew these rules he would know that a cry of "no dice" is invalid if it is raised after the cubes have stopped bouncing. All Americans deserving of the name know that if it is desired for any reason to protest the roll the objector must interfere with the blocks at once and enter his objection on the instant in clear, ringing tones. He may not like the manner in which they were tossed out or he may wish to inspect the spots to assure himself that no sleight of hand has been practiced and introduce unorthodox tools. He has his privilege, to phrase "no dice" uttered in time, may save him from grievous loss. But he must not attempt to mulish a throw which was made some time before, the results of which have become a minute drop of history in the stream of human progress.

This being so, as any American versed in the rules, etiquette and traditions of the national game will readily agree, Mr. Guffey was guilty of a flagrant act of chicanery when he recently yelled "no dice" as to President Roosevelt's two terms in office. He said the first term was no dice because it was vetoed by the supreme court. The second term, he said, was stolen by torries and political ingrates.

Now, as to the first term, he may congratulate himself that he committed this breach in the game of politics and not in the game of craps. Were he to have waited thus long, even relatively, to enter a protest in a crap game Senator Guffey would have been tagged with a chair leg or pool cue and tossed down the stairs, and public opinion would have held that it served the senator right.

Made No Complaint At The Time Of Action

He was leaning over the table, so to speak, breathing hard and oozing dew onto the board when the thing happened, and he made no complaint at the time, unless you count his party, if not out of the human race, several colleagues who had opposed the plan to pack the supreme court. If you do count that you may remember yourself that Senator Burr Wheeler, in fact, did rear back and conk him with a cast iron gobboon and the public opinion disallowed Mr. Guffey's protest.

As to the second term, it might be agreed that the dice have not stopped rolling and that Senator Guffey is still within the statute of limitations by a split second. But it may be argued to the contrary that by now the dice definitely are not in action any more but just tettering a little and show spots which, to Senator Guffey's own eyes, distinctly indicate a final reading of acquiescence. The time for having called "no dice" was back in the early days of the second term, when it was impossible to foresee what numbers would come up.

His Own Man Has Held Dice Both Times

Senator Guffey's case, acquired, perhaps inadvertently, $406,000 interest on public funds while serving his country as a dollar-a-year man in the office of the alien property custodian and had to kick it back. He is a New Dealer of the same general type as Frank Hague and Ed Kelly of Chicago. Prosperous, fortunate men of large insurmountable affairs and wealth, these patriots have in common a strong, profitable enthusiasm for the administration but a personal reserve which deters them from sharing poverty with the ill-used third They also have a common understanding of regrettable misunderstandings with the treasury of the nation which they serve, such being the ingratitude of republics.

The senator goes so far as to say that an upheaval will destroy big business and politicians if his claim of "no dice" for President Roosevelt is disallowed. He seems to forget, however, that his own man has held the dice both times and that if there was anything wrong with the roll or the tools that would be something for his man, not the opposition, to explain.

The senator, were he up in his Americanism, would know, too, that among those who play the national game the phrase "no dice" is used to describe a type of person who is neither hated nor respected. Of such a person it is said that he is just no dice. Senator Guffey might try that one on for size.

Bar Backs Bill to Retire Judges as They Get to be Old

Lawyers Tells Legislature Retirement Is for Public Benefit

Madison—The joint finance committee today recommended defeat of a senate bill providing a system of retirement for state supreme court justices and circuit court judges.

At a hearing yesterday the proposed system was described as a forerunner of a better administration of justice through establishment of a younger, more competent judiciary.

The committee received no answer, however, to Chairman Otto Mueller's question: "How much would it cost?"

The bill would allow justices with 10 years of service and judges with 15 years, who have reached the age of 65, to retire at half pay after a 5 per cent deduction from their salaries.

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—Removal of superannuated judges from Wisconsin courts will facilitate the administration of justice and prevent the "disastrous experience of the past which arose out of the desire of aged justices to remain on the bench until their death, supporters of a judicial retirement plan told the legislature's joint finance committee yesterday.

Leaders of the Wisconsin bench and bar appeared to argue for a pension system which would allow supreme and circuit court judges to retire as reserve judges on half salary. Supreme court judges would be eligible for the pension after 10 years of service, circuit judges after 15 years, if between 65 and 75 years of age. The judges would contribute 5 per cent of their salaries ($8,000 for circuit judges and $10,000 for supreme justices), while the state would pay the balance.

The bill defines its purpose as a measure to improve court procedure and clear congested calendars. The supreme court would assign the reserve justices to court duty whenever necessary.

None of the proponents offered any testimony on the cost to the state of the plan, but E. J. Dempsey, prominent Oshkosh attorney, said that it would "impose little burden on the taxpayers."

Benefit Public He said that the retirement plan would be of more benefit to the public in speeding and making more efficient the administration of the courts than it would be to the judges themselves.

Citing instances of excessively old judges who were unable to manage their courts or handle their calendars, he said that the two most recent judges in the Winnebago-Calamet county circuit served beyond their time.

"Judge Beglinger," said Dempsey, "had to be shown that he had heard a case before; sometimes he wouldn't remember." Judge Beglinger recently died. His predecessor, Judge Brunell, ran for reelection when he was 80, Dempsey said, and he handled a few cases in his last years. It once required five years to carry a case from the Manitowish circuit court to the supreme court, principally because the trial judge was too old to handle his job adequately, he continued.

"Justice that long delayed is justice denied," he said.

No Infringement When two legislators expressed the thought that retirement of judges might be an infringement of the popular right to elect them, Dempsey disagreed. He compared the plan to the teachers' retirement system, which prevents superannuated teachers from continuing in service. People are loath to retire veteran judges who ask for reelection, while younger men hesitate to oppose them at elections, he testified.

Judge August C. Hoppmann of the Dane county circuit court, representing the board of circuit judges, said that the 27 Wisconsin circuit judges and the members of the state supreme court are backing the retirement bill.

Arthur Kopp, prominent southwestern Wisconsin lawyer and Plattville leader of the bar, warned that when "a man gets to be 75 years of age he can't be sure of himself. There is nothing more vital to all of us in America today than the administration of the courts."

Kopp said that old judges caused "travesties in some circuits within my experience." The retirement system would preclude a repetition of those "disastrous experiences of the past" he promised.

A similar retirement bill was introduced by Progressives in the 1937 legislature, but was killed in the state assembly. At that time many

55 Girls Attend Camp

At South Park, Waupaca

Waupaca—Fifty-five girls attended the stay-at-home camp in South park all last week. Activities were climaxed with a hike and treasure hunt at old Taylor lake. In addition to the regular camp, Ann Johnson of Pennsylvania and Peggy Lou McNelly of Chicago attended.

The next camp for girls will be held July 24 through July 28. An over-night hike will be the feature event. Miss Alice Smith, Ed Hoppe and Elgy Zimmerman will be in charge.

Fred Ray, state director of recreation from Madison, was a guest of the camp Thursday. He was accompanied by Arnold Bledgett, district recreation supervisor, and Ray Wilcox of the state training staff.

Nichols Purchases Old Milling Firm Property

Weyauwega—A. L. Nichols, Nichols, has purchased the old Weyauwega Milling company property for $1,300 from the city and plans to convert it into a soy bean flour mill.

The industry is a new one and still is in an experimental stage, Nichols said. Nichols said he obtained some edible soy bean seed from China a few years ago and, starting of the mill will depend on how the seed thrives in this area.

Barn Burns Down on Herman Lehmann Farm

Wausau—A barn on the farm of Herman Lehmann near the village of Porterville was completely destroyed by fire Tuesday night. The family awakened at 2 o'clock to find the building ablaze, turned in the alarm to the Veterans' Home and attempted to save the contents of the building but without success. The fire department responded immediately but was unable to do more than save the surrounding buildings. Valuable tools were destroyed. Insurance carried will not cover the loss. Spontaneous combustion is believed to have been the cause.

Not only birds but some animals, fish and insects migrate.

Both Players At Fault for Missing Slam

BY ELY CULBERTSON

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: This is another problem of man and wife playing bridge together. I happened to be the man and the fatal hand was as follows:

South, dealer.
East-West vulnerable.
North-South part-score 20.

NORTH
♠ K 7 2
♥ A K 9 8 5
♦ Q 7
♣ A 8 8

EAST
♠ 10 8 5
♥ A 10 6
♦ K 10 5 4 3

SOUTH
♦ K Q 7 2 3

"My wife and I were, respectively, North and South. Having dealt myself the South hand, I had a horrible vision of game and rubber going out the window, so I thought I would be smart and open with four clubs. (Under the score conditions, was this such a terrible thing to do?) West passed and my wife promptly bid four no trump. When East passed I did likewise. I felt that, although we probably would go down three or four tricks, we would save off the rubber for the time being, or even possibly make four no trump. I felt that a five club bid on my part surely would be doubled.

"Well, to make a long story short, that was the most stupid thing I ever did in my life (according to my wife). I'll admit it probably wasn't just right, but holding such a worthless hand I couldn't resist temptation. I might add that sometimes this little girl bids four no trump just because she holds two aces and a king, or three aces, regardless of bidding, fit or distribution. I explained to her that if I had had a normal opening hand I would have bid one club instead of four, and then her force would tell me that we had slam possibilities.

Although everything has been forgiven and we still play bridge together, I should like your unbiased opinion as to whether or not the four club bid was entirely out of order.

"B. H. Cleveland."

The opening four club bid, although a terrific stretch and almost in the nature of a psychic, cannot justly be criticized in nearly as strong terms as should be applied to the rest of the bidding. It is enough to call the four club bid "bad" or "very optimistic," but we must search for stronger adjectives in discussing the four no trump response and, more especially, South's final pass. Presumably North-South were using the Culbertson four-five no trump convention, and it was so, North did not have the conventional requirements for a four no trump bid. She had neither three aces, nor two aces and the king of a bid suit. Granting that North's honor strength made a slam try tempting, she could have extended the invitation in just as clear, and a great deal safer, fashion by bidding four hearts. When she opens with the other out of an opening bid, the inference is that a slam is being investigated. In this case, of course, South would have been delighted to pass to the four heart bid, and the contract would have been fulfilled. If South could not find five clubs, she always could bid five clubs.

But although North's four no trump bid was pretty terrible, South's pusillanimous pass made it look actually good by comparison. This sort of responsibility dodging is extremely popular, but nonetheless criminal. It is like a man starting a fist fight and then, when a friend rushes forward to help him, being discreetly away and letting the fight end. For all South could tell, North's four no trump bid might have been completely justified, as well as conventional, that it, North might have had terrific strength in three suits, including clubs, and might have been totally void in one suit. Six clubs might be an absolute lay-down, whereas the opponents might be able to run North's missing suit at no trump.

Thus, although I do not condemn South's opening four club bid too severely, I think that he should have been lightly boiled in oil for his pass to four no trump.

What North would have done if South had bid five clubs is another question which, fortunately we cannot and do not have to pass upon.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

Here is a husband who is rude to his wife before her friends, and feigns indifference to her, yet he is wildly in love with Florence and almost collapsed with worry and anxiety when the baby was born. Try to solve this paradox.

CASE N-194: Florence W., aged 29, has been divorced twice and is now married to a third husband. "Bob and I were very happy during our courtship," she began. "I had definitely decided never to marry again, and told him of my previous marriages soon after we had first met, but he insisted that we get married."

"Well, I was in love with him by that time, so I agreed. And in order to help him out, I told him I wanted a baby. We now have the cutest little boy, about a year old."

"But Bob is so undemonstrative. He seldom tells me he loves me. In fact, it has been 3 months since he last said so. If he'd only kiss me once in awhile and tell me he loves me, I'd be perfectly happy. "He is generous with his money, and is a cultured man. Moreover, he is devoted to the baby. But he acts almost as if he were afraid he might show some affection for me before my friends."

"He is very considerate of others, but seems deliberately to try to hurt me or be rude to me, especially when we are with my friends. Dr. Crane, why does he act this way?"

DIAGNOSIS: When a woman has been married previously or has had a known affair with some other man prior to marriage, she will often find her husband behaving like Bob in today's case.

There are thousands of such men in every large city, and they act indifferent toward their wife, especially when they are with her friends. Why?

'Hard' Child May be One Who Keeps His Feelings Concealed

BY ANGELO PATRI

"She is such an unloving, hard child. When her little sister was hurt she just stood looking on, with never a word, never a quiver. I asked her if she wasn't sorry that little sister was hurt and she said, 'O, yes. It's too bad,' and walked away."

"Her little sister isn't a bit like that. She cries if Marjorie is in trouble, and she always wants to share what she has with her. Everybody loves her but Marjorie, poor child, isn't going to make friends very fast. I wish I knew how to reach her."

"Granny came for a visit and stayed all winter. She and Marjorie were on good terms with each other the first day, although there was no demonstration on either side. They exchanged few words but there seemed to be some sort of understanding between them and needed no words. Every afternoon when Marjorie arrived home after school she followed her routine of changing, washing, eating and then quietly made her way to granny's room. Granny smiled at her, got out an old book, and read to her. When the story was finished Marjorie went to the little corner cupboard and took out an apple, two plates and a little old-fashioned fruit knife. She peeled and cut the apple into quarters, passed much she had done to make the children happy, and in all the talk Marjorie had no share. She sat stiffly silent all the way home, when father went to put the car up she disappeared. "Look for her and get her to come for her supper," said her mother. "I can't imagine where the child could go, and she just after parting with her granny. That child has no heart. She's had as much. Do, please, Daddy, see if you can find her."

Daddy hadn't been talking any too much that afternoon, come to think of it. And he hadn't said anything beyond "Yes," "No," "I guess so," since returning to the house. He seemed to know just where to look for Marjorie, turning directly to the stairs and going to the attic. In the darkest corner he picked up the little huddled, heartbroken child, who was sobbing out her grief and loneliness in the silence and darkness where nobody would hear or see.

"It's too bad, old girl," said daddy. "We'll see it out together. Maybe she will be back in the winter and maybe you and I can help each other a bit until then. And we'll go to see her, you and I, right soon."

Mr. Patri has prepared a leaflet entitled, "Lying," in which he tells parents the causes of this habit and how to help children to overcome it. Send for it, addressing your request to Mr. Angelo Patri, Child Psychology Department of this paper. (Enclose a self-addressed, stamped, 3-cent envelope.)

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Slovenly Appearance Takes Romance Out of Marriages

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—What shall I do with my husband? He is always clean and neatly dressed when he goes out, but when we are alone he looks like a human rag bag. I think he should be as particular about his appearance now as he was before marriage, and have told him so. But he any of the adventitious aids of clothes. Also, they are strong in the belief that, no matter how a man looks, he always looks like a Fairy Prince to his wife.

Hence in this comfortable faith they feel they do not have to worry about personal adornment. And so when a man is the glass of fashion and the mold of form, when he pays meticulous attention to the cut of his coat and the set of his trousers and is always barbed within an inch of his life, it is because he is a person who knows his own worth. He gets a kick out of being known as one of the best-dressed men in town. But his beautifying is done for his own gratification. It is not inspired by any pity he has for the women who have to look at him at home, or the girls whom he takes out.

Yet the very men who are careless about their own appearance are over-critical of women's. No man will take a girl stepping if she is frowzy and looks like a package that Mother tied up. If Maud and Adelina expect to have dates, they have to be spick-and-span and have a fresh way and their nails manicured. But often the very boys who expect their dates to look like Daily Hints From Paris will be so untidy that the girls are ashamed to be seen out with them.

The necessity of wives keeping themselves easy on their husbands' eyes is a fact. Indeed, husbands consider that they have a perfect alibi for hunting up a more attractive lady if their wives go around the house in soiled kimonos and run-down-at-the-heel slippers, and that no one could expect them to take any interest in kissing a wife with cold cream on her face.

But apparently men do not think that it is necessary for them to continue to be on their mettle to be attractive to their wives, or that a husband can disillusion his wife by his appearance as easily as she can disillusion him. For many men consider him a place where they can sit around in their stockings and feet and their undershirts and look like something the cat brought in and still have their wives admire them.

The moral of all of which is that in marriage the razor is just as important as the make-up box. If you want your wife or husband to be romantic about you you have to look the part.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a girl of 17 and I hate my own sex because a girl who has a brother can't have a girl friend. There are all hypocrisies, pretending to like her when they are just after her brothers. One girl even had the nerve to tell me that I was stingy because I didn't introduce her to my brothers. I get so angry with them that I would like to choke every girl I know. If the silly folks only knew my brothers as I know them, they wouldn't be so crazy about them. SALLY.

Answer: Good helps those who help themselves in matters of emotion as he does in other things. You can resist temptation if you will fight against it hard enough. Why not use some of the self-control about love that you use about material things? For instance, you want an automobile, but you don't think of stealing one. You want jewels and fine clothes, but you are willing to wait and work for them until you can get them honestly. Believe me, dear, the easiest way in love is the hardest way in the end. Don't take it.

Answer: Dear Mrs. Post: Is there anything improper about the term "boy friend"? Mother thinks that it sounds cheap, but to me it doesn't describe the man I like best half as well as "boy friend." Or does it?

Answer: It doesn't! But why, is hard to explain, since nothing is more unreasonably arbitrary than the social acceptances or taboos of speech. For not-to-be-explained reasons, the term "boy friend" has been made welcome everywhere, whereas the word "escort" is still out on the front step without any apparent chance of being let in!

Tailor Disagrees About White Waistcoat

Dear Mrs. Post: I agree with what you wrote some time ago that the white tie is not correct with the tuxedo, but I disagree with you that the white waistcoat is proper with the tuxedo. I am a tailor and I have never heard of this combination. Always a white tie and white waistcoat with full evening clothes and a black tie and black waistcoat with tuxedo. Will you please tell me what authority there is for answering that a white waistcoat with tuxedo is correct? Perhaps you will want to correct a misprint.

Answer: No, it was not a misprint—but I should perhaps explain that I was writing about the young and super smart of New York, Long Island, Newport, as well as Tuxedo (my own home, by the way, and where this coat originated). In these and similar places, a well-dressed man rarely wears anything but a white waistcoat with his dinner clothes, just as no man in best society ever carries an ivory-topped ebony stick.

Marking Playing Cards

Dear Mrs. Post: Our name is Brown. Recently we bought some playing cards that we had marked your neck, which you should avoid. After applying the foundation, powder your throat with the same shade of face powder which you use on your face, and remember that the throat has a back as well as a front. Some women forget that!

There is no reason why you cannot make your throat more lovely and keep it that way. But if you are not willing to devote a few minutes each day for at least one month to throat care, you cannot expect to see any improvement.

The leaflets mentioned may be had upon request, also the name of the throat cream. Enclose a self-addressed envelope bearing a three-cent stamp for my reply. Write me care of this paper.

Exercise Necessary

But creams, astringents and chin straps are not sufficient to restore a lovely throat contour once it has drooped. Daily exercise is needed to correct your faulty posture, and to give your neck a good work-out. By diligently doing the exercises suggested in my two leaflets, "Rules to Banish the Dowager's Hump," and "How to Keep Young Looking," your throat will take on fresh beauty. But you must make good posture an unconscious habit, and you must stretch your neck and head properly. The secret lies in firming your muscles instead of stretching lax muscles more.

Liquid powder foundations are excellent for throat make-up, providing you select one in shade which matches your current skin tone. If you use one which is lighter than your skin you succeed only in drawing attention to make it up as carefully as we do our face.

But if you have neglected to do all these little beauty rites, and are now at the age when your throat is shrieking about your indifference, you will have to get right busy on a concentrated treatment to restore some of the youth it has lost.

Follow This Routine

Your best bet is a very good throat cream and usually such a cream is more costly than the general run of face creams as it must be a super emollient to be good. One of the more popular cosmetic firms sells a highly concentrated throat cream accompanied by a strongly-woven chin strap.

Nightly you massage your throat with this cream with a firm upward movement, beginning on your chest and going up to the cheek and chin line. After a good dousing with astringent you tie on your chin strap while the throat muscles are still lifted from the massage and wear it to bed. This strap gives the muscles strong support during your sleeping hours.

SOFT, COOL

BY ANNE ADAMS

Soft, cool, gracious is this midsummer's dream of a frock. Pattern 4153 is designed by Anne Adams especially for ladies who must watch their lines. And she's done it with such disarming simplicity and comfort! The very soft collar ends in a graceful bow-tie, wouldn't it be pretty made in gay contrast? Extra fullness is released from shirring or gathers at the shoulders and above the waist. See how nicely the skirt is paneled at both front and back for more width. Make the sleeves in short puffs or comfy open flares. And hurry, let the Sewing Instructor show you the easy way to stitch up this frock while summer's still young!

Pattern 4153 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 4½ yards 36 inch fabric.

The Home Gardener

By Edwin R. Perkins

Ants are nuisances in the garden as well as in the home. In the garden they carry away germinating seeds, cover seedlings with their stings and keep herds of aphids on plants always under their control. The aphids are carefully tended by "shepherd ants" who regularly milk the aphids to obtain plant juices on which the baby ants, in underground nurseries, are fed. Killing a few surface ants is not an effective method to control ants. The only sure control measure is to kill off the queen ant. At her death the colony dies out.

Poisonous bait, if attractive in taste, will be collected by working ants and carried to the underground home and offered the queen and the thousands of babies developing in the nursery from eggs laid by the head of the colony—the queen.

While attractive ant poisons are on the market the home gardener can easily concoct a good one from the following formula. Dissolve two pounds of sugar in a pint of water, add one-tenth ounce of tartaric acid, boil together for thirty minutes, then cool. In another vessel dissolve one-tenth ounce of sodium arsenate in one ounce of boiling water; cool and add four ounces of honey. Mix the two solutions.

For use pour some of the solution in shallow pans—jar tops are excellent—and place where ants are numerous. The workers will find it and feed it to the colony, which will become poisoned and die out.

"It was hot," said Jumbo. "We had gin fizzes. Luella says that alcohol taken in minute quantities at the proper times has caloric value." "Well, what happened next?"

"Oh, we've had a few dates. And the other day I broached the subject of this party of ours with a view to signing her up for the big night."

"That went over okay, I suppose?" Jumbo reflected. "Well, it did and it didn't. Luella is not a girl to mince around about anything. If there's anything on her mind, she comes right out with it. So she said to me, 'Cutler,' she said—she calls me 'Cutler, you see. She's direct. No nonsense. 'Well, Cutler,' she said, 'you've asked me to go to an affair with you. But I've been doing a lot of thinking lately, Cutler. What I'm getting at is this: When I first became interested in physical culture, I promised myself that I would never have anything to do with men whose physiques are either over or under-developed. The natural relief at not having your blood on my hands caused me to break this rule several times. Now, however, I shall have to establish it. I like you, Cutler. I might even say I'm fond of you. But there's one thing that I can't overlook. Cutler, you're too fat. You're the kind of a man who mows down the populace with vest-buttons every time he fills his lungs. And, considering the nature of my work, to consort with a person who looks like a blowfish would be the height of hypocrisy. So—its distinctly up to you. Conquer your obesity, Cutler, and I might follow you not only to this secret party, but even unto the ends of the earth. Who knows?"

"I Renounce"

"Well, here I thought I'd been sitting pretty and all the time, it seems, Luella had had reservations. It was a stunner, I tell you. But I want you to see how I met the situation. 'Well,' I said—I believe it is always best to say 'I believe'—I can well understand that what with your profession and my natural upholstery, you find yourself on the horns of a dilemma. But think nothing of it. With my customary vision I can see the way out."

"Beginning now, I renounce food. I renounce all beverages except a sustaining nature. I renounce taxicabs, bridge-tables, elevators, deep

SUN WORSHIP

Buffaloes have not ranged about Arizona and New Mexico, in any large numbers, for hundreds of years. How does it happen, then, that the Hopi Indians have an important Buffalo dance?

Indian man and woman, taking part in Buffalo dance. The reason seems to be that the ancestors of the present Hopis used to live farther to the north, where there were many buffaloes. After moving into the Southwest, centuries ago, they kept up their old custom of going through this dance.

In this tribe, the buffalo dance lasts one day. The chief dancers are a young woman, known as the Buffalo Maid, and a young man, the Buffalo Youth.

The Buffalo Maid is supposed to be a daughter of the sun, and on her back she carries what is meant to be an image of the sun.

The Buffalo Youth holds in his left hand a crooked stick, as a symbol to give him power over lightning. In his right hand he holds a rattle, and on his head he wears a cap made of buffalo skin, with a pair of horns jutting from it.

The symbols of lightning and the sun both seem to have the same purpose—to give honor to the sky-god. The Hopi dancers cannot help their hunters to obtain buffaloes, but they can use the dance to practice worship of the sun.

In some Hopi homes, the mother of a newborn baby makes a scratch on the wall for each day the child lives. This is kept up until there are 20 scratches.

On the morning of the twentieth day, before dawn, the oldest woman in the family—usually the grandmother—makes ready for a great event. The baby is washed with care, and a sacred meal is placed on its face. A small ear of corn is fastened to a cord, and hung over the infant's chest. This ear is to be kept as long as the child lives.

The father also rises early and takes a seat on the eastern side of the roof of his home. He is wrapped snugly in a blanket, and his duty is to watch the point of sunrise. As soon as he sees the first light of dawn, he calls out that it is time for the child to be brought outdoors.

Out of the house comes the mother, and she is followed by the grandmother or other women of the clan, who holds the baby. They make their way to the place where the father is seated, following a thin line of sacred meal. Often they are followed by other members of the family or clan.

Plywood Teams to Clash Friday in Benefit Contest

Softball Battle Under Lights Will Aid Accident Victim

New London — A softball game for the benefit of Howard Levezo, Plywood employee who is confined to a Clintonville hospital recovering from a skull fracture he suffered in a recent motorcycle accident, will be staged under the lights at the city ball park at 8:30 Friday evening by two unbeaten Plywood teams, the Senior Men's league entry and an All-Star line-up picked for the occasion. An admission of 10 cents will be charged.

The Plywood still remained undefeated in the Senior Men's league when they downed the Lutheran team by a score of 16 to 10 in games Tuesday evening. Clyde Roepke and Art Borjesson picked for the Plywood with Glen Hall catching. Bowers and Karl Krueger formed the losing battery.

Bordens suffered a 6 to 9 defeat at the hands of the Edisons. G. A. Wells and Don Stern tossed for the milkmen with Red Barlow behind the plate. Clarence Marks and Art Goshawk pitched the Edisons to victory. Elmer Helgeson doing the receiving.

Gambles took the second half lead in the Industrial league on a forfeit by the Elwood Tap Rooms last evening. They're one up on Bordens but still have to play the Milkmen a postponed game, which probably will be settled at the Washington. High school diamond Friday evening. They also have to decide the first half championship between them.

Sewer Work in Third Ward to Begin Friday

New London—Work on the Third ward sewer project is expected to begin Friday, according to Albert Gesse, city superintendent of streets who will supervise the installations. A crew of about 15 men will be transferred from the Hatten park project to the new sewer project at the beginning of a work period Friday. Later another 15 men now at the stone crushing project south of the city also will be transferred to the sewer job.

First operations will consist of digging up the old sewer along E. Cook street from Algoma to Fremont street to replace it with a larger one. Work then will progress south across Beacon avenue to the city limits.

Methodist Scouts to Leave for Camp Sunday

New London—Nine Boy Scouts of Troop 7 of the Methodist church made plans at a meeting Tuesday evening to attend the Valley County's Gardner Dam camp on the Wolf river all next week. The delegation is the largest ever to represent New London at the camp.

Planning to leave Sunday are Richard Wyman, Wilton Quant, David Smith, James Christensen, James Cristy, Robert Herres, Ercel McPeak, Harold Huntley and Robert Nelson. Others are planning to go to camp the following week. The boys will be transported to camp at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon by parents and members of the adult troop committee.

Registration for Net Tourney Ends Saturday

New London — Saturday is the last opportunity for men and older boys to sign up for the men's city tennis singles championship tournament which is scheduled to start Monday, it was announced this week by R. M. Shortell, city recreation director. Only three have signed to date and unless six compete, the tourney will be dropped and the new tennis trophy will be awarded to the upper half of the senior boys' division, for which more than 20 have registered.

Foursome Tournament Features Ladies' Day

New London—The Misses Rosemary McDaniel and Louise Deming won the golf prize in the weekly Ladies' day play at Springfield course Wednesday afternoon. A 2-ball foursome tournament was held.

All flights in the home elimination tournament are expected to be finished this week and awards to the winners in each of the four divisions will be made at the regular meeting of the club at the course next Wednesday.

Northport Methodist Church To Observe 75th Anniversary With Special Services Sunday

Northport — The seventy-fifth anniversary of the Methodist church here will be held Sunday. The opening service will be conducted at 11 o'clock by the Rev. I. E. Schlagsenhaus, D. D. district superintendent of the Appleton Conference.

At noon a free fellowship picnic dinner will be served on the church lawn. From 1 o'clock to 2:30 there will be a program at which "old timers" will be called on. Judge Simon P. Wilson, of Deer Lodge, Mont., former resident of Northport, has been invited to be present and speak.

At 2:30 a song and re-consecration service will be conducted by the pastor, the Rev. H. P. Reksstad. The choir will be comprised of members of former choirs. Many early residents and former members of the church have signified their intention of being present.

The church was built in 1864, when Northport was the most northern port for steamboats on the Wolf river.

The church has been served by thirty-four pastors. The Rev. Mr. Reksstad, pastor of the Royalton and New London Congregational churches, has served the Northport church since 1938. Three other pastors from the Royalton church also have served the Northport parish. They were the Rev. Essingham, Oosterhuis and Plopper.

The following is the list of pastors of the Northport church: 1864, the Rev. Joseph E. Hammond; 1869, the Rev. W. Woodruff; 1873, the Rev. William Rowbottom; 1875, the Rev. D. T. Olson; 1876, the Rev. W. McWaldron; 1877, the Rev. W. W. Wilson; 1879, the Rev. E. Yager; 1880, the Rev. Delos Paley; 1881, the Rev. E. R. Hayward; 1882, the Rev. C. W. Nelson; 1884, the Rev. C. F. Smith; 1885, the Rev. J. F. Decker; 1886, the Rev. J. L. Bullock; 1887, the Rev. J. M. Woodward; 1894, the Rev. S. A. Sheard; 1895, the Rev. W. H. Melatt; 1897, the Rev. C. G. Roberts; 1898, the Rev. C. W. Turner; 1899, the Rev. H. F. Wiltzie; 1900, the Rev. Isaac Johnson; 1905, the Rev. B. J. Clemens; 1910, the Rev. A. N. Henne; 1912, the Rev. G. N. Calhoun; 1916, the Rev. Wallace Essingham; 1917, the Rev. Trester Oosterhuis; 1918, the Rev. W. N. Perry; 1920, the Rev. J. W. Lewis, who died during his pastorate; 1920, the Rev. Ben C. Plopper; 1921, the Rev. C. E. Olson; 1922, the Rev. Ben C. Plopper; 1923, the Rev. Virgil Bell; 1928, the Rev. E. P. Raby; 1931, the Rev. C. A. Tuttle; 1932, the Rev. William E. Mason; 1938, the Rev. H. P. Reksstad.

The land on which the church was built was purchased from Mr. and Mrs. John C. Walker for $30. The first officers in the church were Trustees Selden Burbank, Samuel G. Bishop, J. C. Walker, Robert Carroll and George F. Hammond. The church at one time had a membership of 200.

75 YEARS OLD

The Methodist church at Northport will observe its seventy-fifth anniversary next Sunday with special services. The edifice was built in 1864, during Civil war days.

Motorcycle Rider Begins Jail Term

New London Man Pleads Guilty of Driving Machine While Drunk

New London—Orville Bates, 23, of this city, pleaded guilty to driving a motorcycle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor when he was arraigned in police court of justice Fred J. Rogers Wednesday afternoon. Unable to pay a fine of $50 and costs, he was taken to Waupaca county jail to serve a sentence of 90 days. His driver's license was revoked until he can show proof of financial responsibility.

Bates was arrested by Waupaca County Patrolman Earl Polzin as the result of an accident on Highway 45 near Clintonville on Sunday evening, July 9. In the accident Howard Levezo, 27, who was riding with Bates, suffered a skull fracture and is recovering at a Clintonville hospital. Bates' left ear was nearly severed in the crash. The accident occurred when Bates attempted to pass an autoist who was preparing to make a left turn.

New London Couple Honored on Golden Wedding Anniversary

New London — Mr. and Mrs. Dan Brown were surprised at a party at their home Monday evening in celebration of their fiftieth wedding anniversary. In the party were Mrs. John Zitske, Mrs. Clarence Ebert, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Forster, Ferdinand Breitenfeldt, Mr. and Mrs. William Breitenfeldt, Mr. and Mrs. Reinhold Kaepernick, Mr. and Mrs. George Edminster, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Krueger and Mr. and Mrs. James Brown. Schafkopf entertained and prizes went to Mrs. Zitske and Mrs. Forster, Ferdinand Breitenfeldt and Dan Brown. Traveling prizes were taken by Mrs. Ebert and William Breitenfeldt.

The F.F. and F. club met with Mrs. William Breitenfeldt Tuesday evening and prizes were won by Mrs. Elroy Stern, Mrs. Lawrence Graebel and Mrs. Gerhardt Feisner, the latter taking the traveling prize. Mrs. Dan Brown will be hostess next week.

Tavernkeepers Denied Right to Bottle or Broken Packages Sale

Waupaca — Tavernkeepers listened for a second time to the city fathers reject a petition to permit sales by the bottle or broken package. Six of the seven tavernkeepers of the city were present at the regular council meeting Tuesday evening, as they were two weeks ago. The petition has been presented annually for the last three years.

After consideration for several weeks, purchased of 16 acres of land on Royalton street known as the Stewart addition, was voted at a cost of $495.25. The land will be used either as an athletic field or a landing field. The property offered by Mrs. Viola Czeskleba to be used for this purpose was rejected when it became apparent that an exceptional amount of money would be necessary to get it in condition for an athletic field and that it would revert to the original owner at any time it was not being used for school purposes. The finance committee—Chris Hansen, Willys Holmes and Stanley Wetherbee—urged the immediate purchase of the land and the recommendation was adopted unanimously.

Ladies Aid Society

Has Its Annual Picnic

Fremont — Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Springer and family and Mrs. Minnie Springer, town of Wolf River, attended a birthday celebration Tuesday in honor of Mrs. Adolph Schroeder, Oshkosh.

Members of the Fremont Ladies Aid society held their annual picnic Thursday at the Dickinson lodge. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sasse, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sasse and Mrs. Louise Sasse attended the funeral of George Kramer, Elkhart Lake, Tuesday.

Mrs. A. P. Walsh and daughter Suzanne, Manawa, who recently returned from Washington, D. C., are guests this week at the H. E. Redeman home.

William Breyer is attending an old settlers convention at Watertown this week.

Mrs. Albert Averill is still confined to her home with a head ailment.

Mrs. R. W. Sommer entertained

STOLE FORMER WIFE

James J. Kehoe (above), 24, charged with kidnapping his divorced wife from her present husband's side, was captured at gun point in New Salem, Mass., about 20 miles from the scene of the abduction at Northampton. The woman, Mrs. Bernice Beckwith, 27, who divorced Kehoe six years ago after he was sentenced to a reformatory on a burglary charge, was apparently unharmed.

Fire Plan to be Placed On Mukwa Spring Ballot

New London — Farmers of the town of Mukwa voted at a special meeting Tuesday night to place the question of accepting the New London Fire department's rural fire protection plan on the ballots of the spring election. The meeting had been called for a special election on the proposal. The town of Lebanon also has decided to bring the question to a vote on the spring ballot. Maple Creek and Caledonia have voted against the plan.

"Well, she seemed to think it a fair sporting proposition. At first she was inclined to haggle a bit about the ten pounds. Tried to hold out for fifteen. But I stood firm. 'Come, West,' I said to her, 'be reasonable. For twenty-five years I've been sort of a landlocked sea-lion. And now you want me to be able to slide through the eye of a needle almost overnight. Who do you think I am,' I said, 'Houdini!'"

"She came around all right, then. And the net of it is, we went that very afternoon to a drugstore and registered my weight. Luella wrote it down. The plan is that, on the day of this Long Island brawl, we're going back to that same scales and weigh in again before the big bout, so to speak."

"But," Van objected, "do you think you can take off ten pounds?"

"It's in the bag, son. Why, listen, for the last couple of days I've lived on lemon juice and birdseed. It can't fail, I tell you."

Van climbed down off the parallel bars.

"Well, Jumbo," he said, "this is very good news. I wish you luck. Jumbo made preparations to resume his mad canter on the electric horse."

"Hey!" he called, as a term thought, "How are you getting on with that girl of yours?"

"Sweet," said Van. "Want to hear what happened to me?"

Jumbo turned on the electric horse.

"Haven't time to talk," he said. "Too busy reducing."

sofas—in a word, and any all contrivances which invite one to lead a sedentary existence. And, in a big way, I go in for exercise. And, I added, if I don't get off at least ten pounds before the appointed night, I am not Mrs. Culter's favorite son. If, I said, I fail to do this, you can tell me to go jump in the lake. On the other hand, if I'm successful you'll be honor-bound to accompany me to one of the season's better parties. What do you think of that, Van?"

"I always said you weren't so dumb," said Van. "Did Luella fail for it?"

Let us turn back to that sultry summer day when Mr. William Steele of California grided, loins and set about the business of tracking down the East brothers, domiciled on Seventh Avenue.

As he turned into this thoroughfare, Mr. Steele found himself wishing, momentarily, that females of the name of East had been more plentifully sprinkled through the Manhattan telephone directory. His opponents in this game stood in a position to have at least a potshot at Romance. It wouldn't have been bad, reflected Mr. Steele, to be calling upon some unknown and, perhaps, glamorous lady this afternoon. Then he decided that things were better this way. After all, he did have an understanding with a bronzed, long-limbed girl in California. And he had every intention of shouting "California, here I come!" in the near future. Solacing himself with these thoughts he felt better and presently arrived at the building which, according to the telephone book, housed the East brothers.

It was a dilapidated four-story structure of nondescript color. There was a shoemaker's establishment in the basement and a delicatessen on the street floor. Lying on the sidewalk in front of the delicatessen was a mangy mongrel who seemed to have lost interest in life during the Taft administration.

William, who was fond of dogs mangy or no, spoke to this individual.

"Hi, fellow," said William.

The mongrel opened one bloodshot eye, gazed at him with loathing and went back to sleep again. No soap there, thought William. He decided to go into the delicatessen and inquire for the East brothers.

An individual in a smeary white apron presided over the delicatessen.

"East brothers?" he said, to William's inquiry. "H'm! You'd be wanting Horace or Morris or I'm a liar."

William said that he did not know their first names.

At this the delicatessen man grinned demagogically.

"You don't know which one of these guys you want to see?" he asked.

William shrugged. "It doesn't matter. Either or both."

"Because," said the delicatessen man, spitting over the counter at a cat who had come to infest the doorway, "you can't see one without the other."

"Is that so?" said Bill. "Devoted comrades, eh? Damon and Pythias?"

"Huh?"

"I said, perhaps they're buddies."

The delicatessen man, leered. "An how?"

"Well," said Bill, wishing to get on with it, "do they live in this building?"

"Yeah," said the delicatessen man. "But they ain't here now. They're working."

"Okay. Where do they work?"

"Where do they work, huh?" said the delicatessen man. He brooded for a space, then seemed to get a thought. "You wait a minute, fella."

He turned and took a much-thumbed card from the top of the cash register behind the counter. "This here card," he declared, "says where Horace and Morris works. They says if anybody asks for 'em when they ain't here, I should give 'em this."

Bill took the card. Scrawled in pencil on it was the legend:

HORACE & MORRIS EAST
DIFFENDERS PENNY
ARCADE

EAST 42ND STREET

"Ha!" said Bill. "Theatrical people, eh?"

The delicatessen man grinned at him. Ever since learning of William's mission the delicatessen man had comforted himself after the manner of one who possesses superior knowledge. His present grin had a faintly patronizing quality about it. Bill, having noted the information on the card, handed it back.

"Well," he said, "so long. Thanks very much."

Then, enchanted at leaving the delicatessen man and his sinister leer, he went out and hailed a taxi.
